ARRIVAL OF THE OCEAN QUEEN.

PROGRESS OF THE ZURICH CONFERENCE.

Views of Napoleon III. on the Italian Question.

RELATIONS OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

American Securities in London.

The United States Mail steamship Ocean Queen, Capt. STARKEY, from Southampton at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Aug. 31, arrived at this port last evening.

Her advices have been anticipated by dispatches received from her off Cape Race, and by the arrival at Quebec of the Anglo Saxon, which sailed from Liverpool on the same day.

The London Times of the 30th says, in regard to the Great Eastern:

"Early on Saturday morning his Imperial Highness the Grand Duke CONSTANTINE paid a long visit to the vessel. For upwards of three hours his Highness examined her, thoroughly examining every part of the ship, from the lowest depth to the best saloon and cabins of modern yards. He expressed himself perfectly astonished at the magnitude of the whole undertaking, and, as a professional man, though, merely judging of it from a nautical point of view, he said little doubt of the success. He claimed for the Russian Government the credit of having the second largest vessel in the world—the Great Admiral—though, as regards fineness of lines and beauty of form, he considered the Great Eastern to be as much larger than the mere tonnage as she did in size and power. His Highness, after partaking of lunch with Mr. CAMPBELL and Capt. HARRAND, expressed a wish to see the new steering apparatus. This simple though most ingenious invention was accordingly inspected at Mr. LUNGLEY's yard, and commended by the Duke in the highest terms. After leaving this yard the Duke proceeded to the manufactory of Messrs. HUMPHREYS and TENNANT, and inspected several pairs of marble engines making for the Russian Government, varying in power from 200 to 600 horses. The number of visitors to the ship on Saturday was immense, and more than double that of any previous occasion."

In relation to the unfortunate Dr. SAYRESER, who is lying under sentence of death, upon a charge of poisoning his second wife, the Times of the 30th says:

"A rumor was very current on Saturday that the Home Office had received a respite for the prisoner, but it had no foundation, and at present the execution is fixed for Tuesday, the 6th of September. It is true that the solicitor for the prisoner, Mr. HUMPHREYS, has made an urgent solicitation to the Secretary of State to delay the carrying out of the sentence, and the culprit himself has also addressed several very long communications to the Home-office, in which he gives a history of the connection between himself and the deceased lady, and most strenuously asserts his innocence; but the whole matter is still under consideration, and it is not likely that any decision will be come to until the middle of the week. The prisoner still continues to exhibit the same calm and almost indifferent demeanor that characterized him throughout the whole of the painful proceedings, and he has never ceased protesting his innocence of the crime of which he has been convicted."

The mate of the American ship Conqueror, CHAS. BOTTRIER, was brought up again at the Liverpool Police Court, charged with the murder of one of the crew on the night sees. The investigation into the prisoner's criminality resulted in his being set at liberty, it appearing that the Court had no jurisdiction.

THE ITALIAN QUESTION.

The Delay at Zurich—Duty of the Italian States—Interesting from Rome—The Earthquake at Norcia—Tuscany, the Duchies, &c., &c.

TARDINESS OF THE NEGOTIATION AT ZURICH—THE REASON.

Correspondence of the London Times.

PARIS, Sunday, Aug. 28, 1859.

A private letter from Zurich, of the 26th, states that the labors of the Plenipotentiaries were going on slowly enough. Notwithstanding the announcement in the telegraphic dispatch a few days ago, it is doubtful if any important point has been yet settled. Whether the fault is attributable to the Plenipotentiaries themselves, to the preliminaries of the Treaty of Villafranca, and to the Emperors not having taken into calculation, in their eager anxiety to make peace, all the difficulties of the negotiations, no one knows. Some people incline to the opinion that this delay is intentional; and the manner in which M. DE BOURQUENEY is acting lends some color to the suspicion. The difficulty is indeed considerable. To restore sovereigns who forfeited their thrones not merely on the ground of misgovernment, but for having gone over to the Austrian camp against their own people; to constitute a league with heterogeneous elements; to call upon the Emperor of Austria for a general amnesty; to expect the same from the King of Naples; and to hope that the gates of Rome would be thrown open to all without exception by the Pontifical Government are matters easier to talk about or to put on paper than to execute.

The letter says:

"The general amnesty was, some days since, made the subject of conversation in the Conference. The agents of Austria and Sardinia made no objection; still no proposal has yet been drawn up, as might be expected from this accord; and the example set by the Emperor of the French is not yet followed at Vienna or at Turin."

PERSANO DONAGNANI has touched the delicate subject of the Duchies in the same way as the others, evidently desirous of ascertaining what effect would be produced by it on the Sardinian Plenipotentiary.

My informant adds:

"There is no longer any doubt, as well as the Emperor of the French, earnestly desires the restoration of the Grand Duke of Tuscany and Sardinia made no objection; still no proposal has yet been drawn up, as might be expected from this accord; and the example set by the Emperor of the French is not yet followed at Vienna or at Turin."

PERSANO DONAGNANI has touched the delicate subject of the Duchies in the same way as the others, evidently desirous of ascertaining what effect would be produced by it on the Sardinian Plenipotentiary.

My informant adds:

"There is no longer any doubt, as well as the Emperor of the French, earnestly desires the restoration of the Grand Duke of Tuscany and Modena; as for the Duchess of Parma, she cannot considered at all; she was left to the mercy of Austria, as Venice EMANUEL, as they might prefer to deal with her; but FRANCIS JOSEPH, who (from the Emperor overheard) declared he would not make peace but on the condition that the Duke were restored to his dominions. The Emperor of the French, of whom it is no flattery to say that he had had enough of war, and was willing at almost any sacrifice to bring it to a conclusion, had no alternative but to accept the conditions. The acceptance exists, but it is not true that a written agreement exists, but force should be employed by either the single or the double-headed eagle to restoration. The treaty of Villafranca is silent on this point; and the Emperor NAPOLEON has more than once pledged himself that nothing shall be done by arms. Force or no force, it is certain, however, that both sovereigns have agreed on a restoration."

THE DUTY OF ITALY IN THE CRISIS.

From the London Times.

Under the protection of the Imperial promise the course of Central Italy to freedom and prosperity seems safe and sure. A little firmness to repel the not too formidable or too earnestly-directed blandishments of Prince POSTAROWSKI, a resolute ingratitude towards their liberator, whose tender heart will be wounded by their obstinacy, but will perhaps be healed again by their acclamations, and the names o the deposed dynasties will be heard no more in Italy. The next step is already resolved upon. They have unanimously decreed to weld themselves into one kingdom whereof VICTOR EMANUEL shall be the first Sovereign. We cannot conceive that, if all chance for Prince NAPOLEON be put out of the question, the French Emperor can have any hearty objection to such an amalgamation. This work of the restoration of Italy will be, if it shall endure, the principal glory of his reign. He will naturally desire that it should be as marked a success, and give as visible a monument to posterity as possible. Piedmont, with twenty more Duchies amalgamated with it, could offer no object of jealousy or distrust to France. It is not comprehensible, therefore, that any stronger sentiment than diplomatic delicacy can induce him to put pressure upon the King of Sardinia to refuse the territory now proffered to him. Moreover, we now know that this pressure will be entirely of an argumentative and diplomatic character. It seems to us, therefore, as matters now stand, that VICTOR EMANUEL cannot refuse the offer of the Duchies. It would, perhaps, not be prudent definitively to accept it. Perhaps it would be more wise to assume the Government provisionally, and thus preserve order, prevent further revolution, and keep out other candidates until the new order of things is consolidated. But unless some very rash or very mad course of conduct should occur to mar the prospect, the unity of Italy is now secure. We will add that the Emperor has a right to say, "To me Italy owes her independence."

STATE OF AFFAIRS AT ROME.

A letter from Rome of the 23d ult. informs us that a military commission appointed to investigate the affair of Perugia had delivered a judgment condemning the chiefs of the revolution. The Government quashed the judgment for informality, and commanded a new trial.

The Sacred College has lost another of its members in the person of Cardinal FALCONIERI-MELLINI. He died on the 22d, at Ravenna, of which he was Archbishop since the year 1825. With this Cardinal becomes extinct one of the most distinguished Roman and Tuscan families, and Ravenna has lost a prelate who was the protector of the poor. His Eminence was likewise Secretary of the Memorialli at Rome, a position formerly of great importance.

Monsignor SPADOA-PISTEA, who was Archbishop of Trinidad, has arrived at Rome. This learned prelate, who is a member of the congregation of Lazarists, has resigned the Archbishopric of Trinidad, where he resided six years. The Holy Father has commissioned him to proceed to Jerusalem, to inquire into the serious differences which exist between the Latin Patriarch and the Franciscan Friars, who are in possession of the Holy Places.

The Roman Minister of Finance at the beginning of this year published the budget for 1859, which showed a surplus of 88,000 crowns over the expenditure. The budget has been examined by the Council of State, and approved by His Holiness. Unfortunately, at the end of the year the expenses as calculated in the budget are almost always found to be increased, in consequence of the extraordinary outlay demanded by several Ministers. Up to the present period the budget has been increased by 500,000 crowns and more. During previous years of scarcity the Roman Government sold bread to the working classes at a lower price than that charged by the bakers. This entailed a loss of 105,000 crowns. The budget of 1859 has been further increased by 100,000 crowns for the expenses of the Camerale printing-house.

It is said that the Pontifical Government is about to publish various decrees. It is rumored that the secret printing-house of the Quirinal is actively employed.

The Pope is resolved to reduce the Legations to obedience before he introduces any measures of reform, and, as his own forces are not sufficient to support the insurrection, he must demand the aid of the Catholic Powers.

Many of the Swiss who quitted the service of the King of Naples have requested an engagement of the Pope, and have been accepted.

The Holy Father does not quit his study, in consequence of a slight sore on his leg; otherwise he enjoys excellent health, and gives his usual receptions.

The Duke DE GRAMONT, the French Ambassador, is not expected to return to Rome before the end of the month.

Subsequent advices have been received to the 27th ult. The Duke DE GRAMMONT had held a conference with Cardinal ANTONELLI on the subject of the reorganization of the Legations.

It is asserted that the Government of Bologna had dissolved a regiment in which some Mazzini volunteers had attempted to cause an excitement. One French division only will remain in Rome. The garrison of the Pope is on march to Pesaro, where the troops are being concentrated.

An earthquake had taken place at Norcia; 200 persons were killed and a large number injured; 9,000 of the population are encamped in the neighborhood of the town. The Pope has dispatched assistance.

AFFAIRS IN THE CENTRAL STATES.

M. PONIATOWSKI writes to his chief, M. WALEWSKI that he has great hopes of succeeding in his mission which is understood to be the restoration of the Grand Duke.

A deputation of the Modenese National Assembly, composed of the Commandeur MALMUSI, (President,) Marquis FONTANELLI, and Count ARIANI, left on the 29th ult., for Paris, intrusted with a special mission to His Majesty the Emperor NAPOLEON III.

The departure of the deputation of the Tuscan National Assembly for Turin, which was to take place on the 29th, had been delayed for several days.

Advices from Bologna, of the 28th ult., state that the elections throughout the Romagna had taken place with the greatest tranquillity and order.

The first results of the electoral assemblies of Bologna are the following: Count BENTIVOGLIO, Prince HERCOLANI, Prince SIMONETTI, Count MAZZILI, Signor MINGHETTI, and Signor ALESSANDRINI.

The official Piedmontese Gazette gives a denial to the reports of political dissension existing among the members of the Sardinian Cabinet. Count ARESE left on the evening of the 29th for Paris.

NAPLES.—THE APPREHENDED FAMINE.

A Naples letter, of the 23d, gives some account of the departure of the Swiss troops:

"At an early hour in the morning 1,1729 Swiss soldiers and 48 officers, all belonging to the Fourth Regiment, marched through the city to the arsenal. They had their arms and baggage, with the Swiss flag displayed, and were headed by their band. Four companies of Neapolitan marines were drawn up at the arsenal, to whom the Swiss delivered up their arms in the most perfect order. By way of prudence, or rather from mistrust, other troops, all with their muskets loaded, were kept concealed in the arsenal, but the precaution was unnecessary. Each Swiss soldier, after having delivered up his arms, received by way of indemnity a year's pay, amounting to 56 ducats, (246f.) The officers who could not claim a pension (after 20 years' service) received three months' pay and their traveling expenses. These soldiers received their money in full before embarking in two merchant vessels, which were taken in tow by the steam-frigate Velox. Other departures will take place at intervals, in order not to cause too many to be at Marseilles at the same time, as the railroad can only convey 500 a day."

The same letter says:

"Much excitement is caused among the people by the high price of corn, and the Government has just given orders for the purchase abroad of 100,000,000 ducats' worth. Several vessels laden with maize have arrived from Sicily. This Winter there will be again the sad spectacle of bread being distributed to the people. Would it not be a better policy, instead of allowing them to remain in ignorance and idleness, to give them employment which they stand in need of, and which might be supplied by the creation of great public works, which are everywhere called for in the country?"

FRANCE.

A Speech for Peace with England M. de Morny to the Council-General of Puy-de-Dome—Remarks of the English Journals—The Emperor in the Pyrenees—The Army and Navy.

THE RELATIONS OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND—SPEECH OF M. DE MORNY.

In his speech at the opening of the Council-General of the Department of Puy-de-Dome, Count DE MORNY, the President of the Legislative Body, spoke as follows:

You have participated, gentlemen, in the enthusiasm excited by our victories, you have shared in the unanimous gratitude of France for the great moderation of the Emperor. But you find it difficult to understand how his Majesty's evident desire to prevent a European conflagration, can have caused in England the newspaper articles, the Parliamentary speeches, and the warlike preparations of which so much has been said. You know, without doubt, by means of what logic the English explain away appearances to newspaper articles and Parliamentary speeches, and the latter to the dissatisfaction of England at the manifest desire of the Emperor to avoid a European conflagration. He goes on to assert that there are no means in France of preventing a newspaper from publishing what it likes, and that in fact the French Press is just as responsible for what it writes as the English, and no more. By the light of this singular interpretation of facts we are enabled to judge M. DE MORNY's appeal against the prejudices and passions of public opinion in this country. For the rest, we are perfectly ready to appreciate the fairness and frankness with which he singles out the prevailing causes of alarm and doubt which have undoubtedly existed of late, while, in the general terms in which he discusses and disposes of them, we are as far as possible from objecting. "Nobody," says M. DE MORNY, with reasonable emphasis, "can estimate so well as myself the loyal faith of the Emperor; and we fully accept the assurance; but we must be permitted to whisper very gently into the ear of the President of the Corps Legislatif that no one knows better than those two distinguished persons the advantages of silence, secrecy, and suddenness in grand political operations; and perhaps it is because people in England have been disposed to pay a compliment to political, at the expense of moral qualifications, that they hesitate to attribute to the same persons and the same policy, the head flatfiete and the hand that strikes on a sudden with the heart of the injured philanthropist, alive to every honest impulse, and the soul of an apostle of peace awake to every generous motion.

At any rate, we heartily echo M. DE MORNY's fine appeal to the good feeling and good sense of the two great nations of the West. By all means let our future rivalry (if rivalry there must be) be a rivalry of industrial and commercial enterprise. We have had enough of glory long ago, and enough of conquest. We know no battle by land or sea in which France had not her full share of honor. Surely France may be contented to fight the future battles of civilization (if battles there must be) side by side with the honorable foes of old time, and the comrades in arms of later and happier years. We believe that in spite of evil omens, the intellect, the enterprise, the best feelings, and the dearest interests of England, and that both cry Peace. But there is one thing needful to make the desire of all good people on either side of the water a reasonable certainty, and that is—Liberty. With an equal, we do not say a similar, liberty enjoyed by our neighbors and by ourselves, every cloud that intercepts a better future would clear away before the light, and every mist of prejudice and passion be dispersed.

From the Paris Constitutionnel.

Shall we have war with England? and why? Because it has placed some parliamentary orators, too faithful to the recollection of the rivalries and hatreds of another age to take alarm without cause, and loudly to demand armaments without necessity, does it follow that a general conflagration will take place? Because certain journals in England, yielding to one knows not what pressure, have hounded us for some time with their daily philippics, we must conclude that they are the real exponents of public opinion, and that they will have sufficient influence to precipitate the signal of a new secular struggle? France is reproached with her warlike mood; to the Emperor is attributed the design, long since formed, of avenging Waterloo and St. Helena. And by what right? Should it not, on the contrary, be remembered that he has trodden beneath his feet as well old hatreds as recent injuries? Far from cherishing any aggressive intentions, is it not he who, for the sake of consolidating the English alliance, has actually on every occasion combated our hereditary prejudices? If, instead of restraining the national animosity, anxious only for an ephemeral popularity, he had excited it, who can say that at his voice France would not have risen as one man? He did not speak the word. He felt that a war between England and France would be a fratricidal war, a war waged by civilization itself against civilization, and the same motive which had counseled him to the union of the two great western powers, determined him to make every sacrifice to assure their permanence. At the elevation at which the Emperor is placed, the thought is not to avenge the past, but to prepare the future. If the countries cannot forget their ancient rivalry, let it least that rivalry be made to serve the cause of progress instead of compromising it. If we must at all price do battle, let us so manage that the battle shall produce fruit.

THE EMPEROR IN RETREAT.

A letter from Saint Sauveur of the 20th says: "The Emperor and Empress the day after their arrival began taking the baths. His Majesty bathes every morning at seven, and her Majesty at eight. In the course of the day they make excursions in the neighborhood and have already been twice to Barèges, where the Government proposes to reestablish a military hospital. The Emperor takes great interest in the projected establishment, and has had the plans submitted to him. It is said that his Majesty will order various constructions in the environs of Saint Sauveur; but thus far only one operation is certain—the restoration of the old hermitage of Saint Pierre, the ruins of which are opposite Luz. The chapel there was formerly a place of pilgrimage, and the hermitage acquired a certain degree of celebrity. The Emperor and Empress seemed much pleased with their new residence. 'I visited various parts of the Alps,' said the Emperor the other day to one of the principal functionaries of the district, 'but I have never seen anything so pretty as the valley of Luz.' We had the other evening a little scene which was really of charming simplicity, and which excited the enthusiasm of the inhabitants and the bathers, from the contrast it presented to the idea generally entertained of imperial majesty. The mountaineers of Luz are famous for their skill in singing. They are simple peasants, most of whom cannot read, and not one of whom knows music; but they sing together with great skill and taste the songs of the country or pieces of their own composition. A number of singers then collected the other evening before the house occupied by their Majesties, and began singing. The drawing-room in which their Majesties sit is on the ground-floor, and the moment the singers began, the Emperor appeared at the door, and was shortly after followed by the Empress. The Emperor seated herself on a chair on the door-steps, with two ladies of honor behind her; and the Emperor, descending amongst the crowd, stood leaning against the wall. The singers, though somewhat moved at such close proximity to their Majesties, sang exceedingly well, and their Majesties several times gave the signal of applause. One of the songs was a sort of cantata, in honor of the imperial family, and a prayer to God to watch over the Emperor and the Imperial Prince, which it contained, drew tears to the eyes of the Empress. When the singing had ceased, the bystanders cried out, with great enthusiasm, 'Vive l'Empereur!' 'Vive l'Impératrice!' 'Vive le Prince Impérial!' The Empress then advanced to the singers, accompanied by the Emperor, and addressed to them her thanks and compliments."

"The Emperor and Empress," says a letter from Biarritz, "are not expected to reach this place until about the 10th of September. Their Majesties will not, it is thought, prolong their stay at the villa beyond the 25th, when the Court will return to Paris, and then proceed to Compiègne, some days earlier than was at first expected."

MILITARY AND NAVAL MOVEMENTS.

The troops forming the garrisons in the third and fourth divisions, the head-quarters of which are at Lille and Chalons on the Marne, have been considerably increased.

The regiments of the Imperial Guard having suffered severe losses at Magenta and Solferino are being reorganized, and the vacancies caused by death filled up. The fourth battalion of the Imperial Guard is also maintained. Government is about to increase the artillery, but the cavalry is to be diminished.

A correspondent from Toulon, after announcing certain reductions in the French fleet, says: "The reduction of the squadron of evolutions to what it was before the recent great events (it is weaker indeed than it was, because it contains so many new hands) will cease, it is hoped, to excite the jealousy of England, which will have no longer any pretext for maintaining in the Mediterranean that fleet of fifty sail, which recently made so objectless an appearance on the coast of Egypt."

AGITATION FOR GERMAN UNITY.

Correspondence of the London Times.

BERLIN, Thursday, Aug. 25, 1859.

There can be no question that the agitation which now prevails through every part of Germany will, before the close of the year, give rise to important events. Every post brings evidence in public papers and private letters of the rapid spread of the feeling to which the Wiesbaden Declaration first gave utterance two months ago. It is so general, that even the Governments of the small States—the most despotic in Europe—do not attempt, at least openly, to repress or to punish it. It is not now a question of Prussian hegemony, but of union in any fashion, provided it be a real union, productive of unity of action, both military and diplomatic. Germany is slow to move, but whoever knows Germany knows what elements are at work within her, and how irresistibly the popular feeling, when once roused, overthrows all obstacles. The lessons of '48 have not been lost, and we may fairly expect that the present movement will result in something more sober and practical, if less ambitious, than the declarations of Frankfort. The entirety of the declarations which are being signed all over the country, the guarded expressions used in them, the anxiety which all parties show to arrive at a common understanding, are the proofs that not theoretical visionaries, but thinking citizens are the actors. Not an echoes of enthusiastic, beer-imbibing, fatherland-ballad-singing students, but the deliberate demand of men of all ranks and all ages, the elements statesmen not excepted. These last may be cited as affording the strongest evidence of the intensity of the feeling. In some at least of the Northern States—I cannot, of course, speak for all—they have come to a resolution that, whatever differences of opinion there may be, there shall be no dawdling on this subject—as remarkable an instance of self-imposed restraint as the Golden Legend contains. This renunciation of the pleasant side of a question which promised so many closed chestes and truncated noses, the proudest badges of a Burschi, is not the laughing matter English readers may think it, but the sign of an earnestness of purpose, which only the feeling of their common country's danger could have inspired. This union of Germany has been the aim of all her ablest statesmen since ULRICH von HUTTEN, soldier, poet and patriot, first conceived the idea. If it is now effected, France and Austria, in spite of themselves, will have more than undone the injuries of centuries, at the same time affording the world the best pledge of future peace.

AFFAIRS IN PRUSSIA.

The Times correspondent says: The change of ministry in Austria, which was looked forward to here with hope that it would lead to a better understanding between the two Cabinets, has disappointed expectation.

The cholera spreads along the shores of the Baltic. Its presence in Stettin is officially acknowledged, as well as in Cuxhaven and Elberfeld, and it is reported to have made considerable ravages at Hamburg.

The King was so much better on the 20th ult. that the Gazette was able to announce that on Sunday the last bulletin would be published.

It is at length announced that the whole of the Russian loan has been subscribed, and that the applicants will receive the full sum they subscribed for—so accurately had the public gauged the present necessities of the Czar.

THE BAVARIAN LOAN.

A new combination has been formed by the Bank of Nuremberg, the Bank of Frankfort, the House of ROTHSCHILD, the Banking-house of M. ERLANGER, and Messrs. MIRES & FRONLICH, for contracting the Bavarian four and a half per cent. loan, to defray the military expenses.

Eight millions of florins of the loan have been left for public subscription.

SPAIN.

The correspondent to the Chronicle says that six hundred Moors attacked Ceuta, but were put to flight by the Governor, at the head of his garrison, and eight killed. The Spanish Government has sent reinforcements by steamer.

GREECE.

The correspondent of the Morning Herald says: Advices from Athens announce that the Chamber has been dissolved, and that a royal decree has ordered a new one to be elected. The day fixed is not mentioned.

From Brazil.

THE UNITED STATES SLOOP-OF-WAR LEVANT AT RIO—DISTURBANCES AMONG SAILORS—CONFLAGRATION—STATE OF THE MARKETS—SHIPPING.

Our files of Rio papers extend to the 16th of July.

There is no political news of interest.

The United States sloop-of-war Levant, Commander HUNT, was lying in the harbor. On July 17 a fracas had occurred between some of the men-of-war's-men and boatmen in the harbor, in which two of the latter had been knocked overboard and drowned. The police were unable to make any arrests.

On the following day an encounter took place in the streets between American sailors and some of the citizens, but it was terminated by the interference of the authorities.

A fire on the 19th of July destroyed the coffee warehouse of Messrs. PURQUIN & BROSSER, on the street of the Benedictines. The coffee in the building, consisting of 2,800 bags, together with the books and papers, was saved.

The 18th anniversary of the coronation of DOM PEDRO II. was observed July 17.

The following American vessels were in the port of Rio on the 23d July:

The Russell of New-York, the Sparkling Wave of New-York, the Westminster of Pensacola, the Old Hickory of Fernandina, the F. S. Mems of Darien, the Statesman of Newport, the Castor of Mobile, the Antagonist of New-York, the Kedron of Boston, the Warren Hallett of Boston, the James S. Davis of Richmond, the Benito of New-York, the Addison Child of Charleston, the Companero of Savannah, the Peter Warwick of Baltimore, the Clifton of Baltimore, the Chase of Baltimore, the Glenwood of Darien, the George Meaghan of Savannah, the Lucy Elizabeth of Montevideo, the Esther of Richmond, and the Mount Vernon of Philadelphia.

Exchange on London was quoted at 24¾d.

Freights to the Northern United States at 45c. & 50c.

Brazilian ounces were bringing 23 milreis.

The quotations for coffee were, for good 5$320 ⅌ arroba, for the superfine, 6 milreis.

Later from the Dominican Republic.

BUSINESS AT PORT AU PLATTE—COUNTERFEITERS FROM THE UNITED STATES—IMPENDING POLITICAL CHANGE.

By the brig John Butler, Capt. MINER, we have dates to 1st inst.

Business was very dull, as the tobacco crop was nearly all bought up.

Exchange—Paper for gold, $2 50 national for $1, and not much paper. Very little hard money in circulation.

The three individuals detected two months since in the act of landing and passing counterfeit paper money from the United States, escaped from the jail at Santiago about 27th ult., together with the jail-keeper. A fine thing to have friends, with a few doubloons at their disposal.

The people generally are much dissatisfied with the prevailing Government, and predict a revolution shortly. There would not, probably, be much fighting. All that would be necessary would be for a majority to declare, &c., &c. The treasury is kept dry as usual. All moneys are forwarded to the city.

Governors of the Almshouse.

HOW THE PAUPERS AND CONVICTS LIVE.

Five of the Ten Governors were in attendance at the Rotunda yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The weekly report which was submitted, states that there were 7,414 inmates remaining in the institution Sept. 3. Since that time 1,126 have been admitted: 89 have died; 1,512 have been discharged; 124 have been sent to the Penitentiary, and 4 to the State Prison, making an increase of 27 during the week.

Reading of the requisitions was in order. On that signed by the Warden of the Penitentiary, R. G. Walmsley, were the following articles: 1 case Mumm's champagne, 2 boxes cabinet wine, 10 gallons brandy, 1 basket of wine, 2 gallons Madeira wine, 5 gallons Sherry wine, 2 cases Sauterne, 2 cases claret, 2 M cigars.

Governor W. T. FINNEY said that he thought that that amount of liquor could hardly be necessary for the next fortnight. On his motion it was referred to the Committee on the Penitentiary.

Six members of the Board were in the room before the close of the session, but Governor MOLONEY temporarily absented himself, and as he did not return when summoned, Governor GUERNSEY, who was in the Chair, declared the Board adjourned until the 27th ult.

The New-Jersey Agricultural Fair.

From the Newark Daily Advertiser of last evening.

The Annual Fair of the New-Jersey Agricultural Society opened very auspiciously to-day. The inclosure includes several acres, surrounded by a substantial board fence, and located upon an expansive plain stretching away eastward to Newark Bay, which is plainly visible, with the picturesque slope of Bergen Hill for its back ground. About a mile south of it is Elizabethport, and at the same distance north is Elizabeth City.

A fine military band has also been engaged and commenced its musical performances this morning near the President's tent.

The exhibition is not fairly arranged yet, and the day will be chiefly occupied in receiving and arranging the goods, which are coming in very rapidly; and the present indications favor an unusually fine display of products in every branch of nature and art.

NEW-YORK POLITICS.

The Democratic State Convention at Syracuse.

GATHERING OF THE DELEGATES.

Probable Action Relative to the Charleston Convention.

CAUCUSES OF THE WOOD AND DICKINSON MEN.

The Present State Ticket to be Renominated.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, Sept. 13—11 P. M.

The Democratic Convention will organize tomorrow.

The Tammany Delegation will be received without controversy.

The Convention will elect delegates to Charleston.

An earnest spirit of reconciliation appears to prevail.

ISAAC V. FOWLER will probably be presented as delegate at large. Messrs. EMMONS, GUERNSEY, CLEMENTS, TRAVERS, CORNING and OTHER BOTTS go to Charleston, in order to make room for representatives of other interests.

The Wood men hold a caucus this evening, which the Dickinson men refused to attend. The friends of DICKINSON have also held a caucus, to determine whether they would sustain the regular or irregular organization of New-York City, and have adjourned without coming to a conclusion.

The present State ticket will be renominated, with the exception of Secretary of State TOWNSEND, who declines; and D. R. PRATT of Queens, Wood or Dickinson; SAVAGE of New-York, and Senator SMITH being talked of to succeed him.

It is intended to represent all Democratic interests on the State ticket, and in election of delegates to Charleston.

SPEECH FOR THE REFORMERS FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, Sept. 13—10 P. M.

The attendance both inside and outside the Convention is already large, and the prospects are that the party have taken the field early.

The head-quarters of both wings of the Democracy are at the Yoakoom House, the rooms of Fernando Wood and Prosper Cassen being in close proximity, while those of Isaac V. Fowler, with the whole number of Tammany Delegates, are only a few doors removed.

The appearance at the rooms of Wood and Cassen was give a fair criterion of the complexion of the Convention. The former are quiet, with plain indications of firmness on their countenances as they pass in and out, while the latter are crowded to their fullest capacity with a confidential air apparent in all and over; conceit of success seems the order of the day.

Numerically, as between the Hards who are in favor of the District system and the Softs who are in favor of electing the Charleston delegates at large, the Convention will stand as follows: 19 to 23 Softs; 24 to 26 Hards. This calculation is closely made and is probably correct, though the Wood men claim a much larger number.

Hon. DANIEL S. DICKINSON is at the Syracuse House, and has been visited by Messrs. CASSEN and CLEMENCE, of the Atlas and Argus, Comptroller CORNING and a number of others, including FERNANDO WOOD and the Mozart Hall delegation.

The position of Mr. DICKINSON is that of conciliation. He desires a harmonious arrangement as to the organization, and a fair representation of the Softs on the Charleston delegation.

DEAN RICHMOND and the Western delegation of Softs are at the Syracuse House.

The old State officers are to be renominated, with the exception of the Hon. GERRIT S. TROWBRIDGE, Secretary of State, who declines a renomination, and whose place will probably be filled by FRANK JAMES or Judge SCOTT. To-night the chances favor the former. Mr. SEWARD, of Hamilton, and Judge SCOTT are talked of for Canal Commissioners.

The Convention will be temporarily organized with S. T. FAIRCHILD, a Cass-Democrat, of Madison, or, perhaps, JOHN SEEKNER, of Rome, for President.

The permanent President will be WILLIAM H. ROCHELLE, unless some change of the programme takes place before morning.

The probability now seems to be that there will be very few contested seats, many thought to be contested declining to appear.

The New-York case will most likely be settled by a resolution declaring that, as the last Convention decided in favor of the Tammany delegates, and no new features have arisen since, the Tammany delegates are entitled to seats. This will exclude FERNANDO WOOD from the floor, but in that case he will take the seat of LEWIS A. EDWARDS, of Suffolk, who has the power of substitution on the Mozart Hall side. Mr. WOOD claims a greater number than is here given him, and insists on having the case of the New-York contested seats heard before the Convention.

Appearances now indicate that all will be harmonious between the friends of Mr. DICKINSON and the Softs.

The Charleston Delegation will undoubtedly be chosen now. The Hards will have probably two delegates at large to two Softs, and one district or rather more of the State Delegation.

The Wood Party held a caucus this evening which was largely attended, although Messrs. MORGAN and SCHELL, and some other Dickinson men remained outside. Speeches were made by Messrs. WOOD, JOHN A. GREENE, Jr., and others, all friendly, insisting on an equal division of the Charleston Delegation, and the State Committee, and an equal representation of Tammany and Mozart Hall in the Convention. The speeches were resolute, but conciliatory in tone. Mr. RUSSELL, of Ulster, waited on the Softs to ascertain the truth of a report that the Softs gate would be admitted without tickets, and that no tickets issued to any gentlemen. The Hards were informed that every delegate and committee would receive tickets and be admitted in the gate. The Hards thereupon resolved to accept the offer, in view of the emergency of the case, but declared against receiving tickets or submitting to any mode of admission hereafter. They received notice to present the name of THOMAS G. ALVORD, for Speaker of the Assembly, for presiding officer of the Convention. The Wood men have further agreed on choosing their own share of the Charleston delegation. If they have the privilege of doing so they will name FERNANDO WOOD and JOHN A. GREENE, Jr., of Onondaga, as delegates at large. On the Soft side it is proposed to concede DEAN RICHMOND and Mr. BROOKS or Mr. SCHELL as delegates at large, DEAN RICHMOND will be delegate at large on the Soft side, and probably ISAAC V. FOWLER.

Among the candidates for State delegates are GEORGE SANDERS, NELSON J. WATERBURY, HON. JOHN C. MATHES, JOHN COCHRANE, Judge CARDOZO, and Judge BERNARD.

Mr. DICKINSON appears anxious to conciliate, and wishes the Mozart Hall delegates to have a representation in the Convention.

Dr. SAWYER, of Blackwell's Island, is talked of for nomination of State Prison Inspector, and will be nominated if he will accept.

Comptroller CORNING and Attorney-General CLEMENTS have been actively engaged to-day in visiting friends, and come to an harmonious agreement with the Wood.

The city is now very full of Delegates, and there will be a crowded Convention to-morrow.

DUNCAN S. MACRAE, one of the Tammany Delegates, has a letter from his constituents on the Wood side, declining to contest his seat, and announcing with that Mr. MACRAE will act for the union and harmony of the party.

During the evening a fracas took place at the bar of the Yoakoom House. Some Syracuse politicians commenced to loudly abuse Mr. WOOD, when his friends after standing the abuse for a considerable time, pitched in and whipped the Syracuse party. Deputy Sheriff DAVIS interfered, and was also badly beaten, his lip and head being cut severely.

The Republican State Committee.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Sept. 13.

The Republican State Committee have a meeting in this city on Tuesday, the 20th inst.

Colored Citizens' Convention at Troy.

TROY, N. Y., Tuesday, Sept. 13.

A State Convention of colored citizens assembled in this city to-day. About thirty-five delegates, representing twenty counties, were present. WM. RICH, of Troy, was chosen President; J. W. BOWLES, of Syracuse, and WM. BROWN, Vice-Presidents, and A. M. GREEN, Secretary.

In the afternoon a series of resolutions were adopted in favor of negro suffrage; applauding the action of the last Legislature; calling upon citizens to advocate their cause; urging the necessity of greater efforts, and providing for organization throughout the State.

In the evening WM. J. WATKINS addressed a public meeting.

The Convention will adjourn to-morrow.

ARRIVAL OF THE OCEAN QUEEN.

PROGRESS OF THE ZURICH CONFERENCE.

Views of Napoleon III. on the Italian Question.

RELATIONS OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

American Securities in London.

The United States Mail steamship Ocean Queen, Capt. SKIDDY, from Southampton at 8 o'clock on the afternoon of Aug. 31, arrived at this port last evening.

Her advices have been anticipated by dispatches received from her off Cape Race, and by the arrival at Quebec of the Angle Saxon, which sailed from Liverpool on the same day.

The London Times of the 30th says, in regard to the Great Eastern:

"Early on Saturday morning his Imperial Highness the Grand Duke Constantine paid a long visit to this vessel. For upwards of three hours his Highness remained on board inspecting every part of the ship, from the lowest deck to the iron masts and external wooden yards. He expressed himself perfectly astonished at the magnitude of the whole undertaking for a commercial speculation, though, merely judging of it from a nautical point of view, he had little doubt of its success. He claimed for the Russian Government the credit of having the second largest vessel in the world—the Great Admiral [illegible] as regarded fineness of lines and beauty of form, he considered the Great Eastern to as much surpass that man-of-war as she did in size and power. His Highness, after partaking of lunch with Mr. CAMPBELL and Capt. HARNESS, expressed a wish to see the new steering apparatus. The simple though most ingenious invention was accordingly inspected at Mr. LUNDEY's yard, and commended by the Duke in the highest terms. After leaving this yard the Duke proceeded to the manufactory of Messrs. HUMPHREYS and TENNANT, and inspected several pairs of marine engines making for the Russian Government, varying in power from 300 to 600 horses. The number of visitors to the ship on Saturday was immense, and more than double that of any previous session."

In relation to the unfortunate Dr. SMETHURST, who is lying under sentence of death, upon a charge of poisoning his second wife, the Times of the 30th says:

"A rumor was very current on Saturday that the Home Secretary had sent a respite for the prisoner, but it had no foundation, and at present the execution is fixed for Tuesday, the 6th of September. It is true that the solicitor for the prisoner, Mr. HUMPHREYS, has made an urgent solicitation to the Secretary of State to delay the carrying out of the sentence, and the culprit himself has also addressed several very long communications to the Home-office, in which he gives a history of the connection between himself and the deceased lady and most strenuously asserts his innocence; but the whole matter is still under consideration, and it is not likely that any decision will be come to until the middle of the week. The prisoner still continues to exhibit the same calm and almost indifferent demeanor that characterized him throughout the whole of the painful proceedings, and he has never ceased protesting his innocence of the crime of which he has been convicted."

The mate of the American ship Conqueror, CHAS. BOURELLE, was brought up again at the Liverpool Police Court, charged with the murder of one of the crew on the high seas. The investigation into the prisoner's criminality resulted in his being set at liberty, it appearing that the Court had no jurisdiction.

THE ITALIAN QUESTION.

The Delay at Zurich—Duty of the Italian States—Interesting from Rome—The Earthquake at Norcia—Tuscany, the Duchies, &c., &c.

TARDINESS OF THE NEGOTIATION AT ZURICH—THE REASON.

Correspondence of the London Times.

PARIS, Sunday, Aug. 28, 1859.

A private letter from Zurich, of the 26th, states that the labors of the Plenipotentiaries were going on slowly enough. Notwithstanding the announcement in the telegraphic dispatch a few days ago, it is doubtful if any important point has been yet settled. Whether the fault is attributable to the Plenipotentiaries themselves, to the preliminaries of the Treaty of Villafranca, and to the Emperors not having taken into calculation, in their eager anxiety to make peace, all the difficulties of the negotiations, no one knows. Some people incline to the opinion that this delay is intentional; and the manner in which M. DE BEUSTEMPEY is acting lends some color to the suspicion. The difficulty is indeed considerable. To restore sovereigns who forfeited their thrones not merely on the ground of misgovernment, but for having gone over to the Austrian government, but for having gone over to the Austrian government, but for having gone over to the Austrian with heterogeneous elements; to call upon the Emperor of Austria for a general amnesty; to expect the same from the King of Naples; and to hope that the gates of Rome would be thrown open to all without exception by the Pontifical Government are matters easier to talk about or to put on paper than to execute.

The letter says:

"The general amnesty was, some days since, made the subject of conversation in the Conference. The agents of Austria and Sardinia made no objection; still no proposal has yet been drawn up, as might be expected from the second and the example set by the Emperors of the French and Austria (Vienna or at Turin)."

Rome as Sovereignty has not touched the delicate subject of the Duchies in the same way as the others, evidently desirous of ascertaining what effect would be produced by it on the Sardinian Plenipotentiary.

My informant adds:

"Rome as Sovereignty, as well as the Emperor of the French, earnestly desired the restoration of the Grand Duke of Tuscany and Modena by the act and force of the same populations who have overthrown them, and, moreover, that the Modenese Government should restore to Count ARIANI, with all its influence, but he does no more at Zurich than repeat what Count ARIANI said at Turin, and the answer will be the same. There is every reason to believe that the Sardinian Plenipotentiary will affix his signature to no protocol which would confirm the article in the Treaty of Villafranca relative to the restoration of the unpopular Princes.

What the French Government will at last have to do is simply to declare to Austria that it has done all that it was really in its power in favor of her protégés, or else it must dispose itself to impose them on the Duchies by intrigues, if not by force. There are some who suppose that the King of Sardinia not accepting the annexation of Tuscany would facilitate the solution which it seems the Emperor NAPOLEON heart desires, and then, abandoned to itself by him to whom it looked for support, and under whose sceptre it desired to place itself, the Duchy would have no resource but to submit to FERDINAND IV. returning with a constitution in one hand and the national flag in the other.

The writer observes:

"But the pretensions of VICTOR EMMANUEL would not be a solution—it would be merely a complication. Tuscany would establish another form of government. Proposals would be made for a military league which is just formed, she would [illegible] the march of events, in the full confidence that, [illegible] night, French soldiers would never [illegible] the dethroned Duke."

PARIS, Monday, Aug. 29.

I mentioned yesterday that the rumors, founded on a dispatch from Zurich, which circulated recently, of the settlement of the question of Lombardy were exaggerated. The Plenipotentiaries have not terminated their labors to a conclusion respecting Lombardy. The boundary question has not been decided, nor has an agreement been come to as to the portion of the debt to be transferred to Sardinia in consequence of her new acquisition. An understanding on that point between the Austrian and Sardinian Plenipotentiaries is not easy, so long as the former persists in his pretensions that Austria shall be relieved not only from the debt corresponding to the province which she has lost, but from a portion of that which weighs heavily on the Empire. Sardinia is not disposed to undertake any such onerous liabilities incurred in upholding the despotic system of Austria in Lombardy.

But even if Lombardy was settled the stipulations of the preliminaries would still remain unaccomplished, and will be a question for consideration whether they will be left for a general Congress or simply for the Austrian and French Governments. A Congress such as Congress will ever sit! We know that the Emperor NAPOLEON proposed it to his brother and former "the enemy," but that his "friend," whose relations with Congresses is, perhaps, not very agreeable, positively refused, and that the Conference of Zurich was adopted as a pis aller.

A Congress being so distasteful to Austria, the question of the two Duchies remains. But it will be necessary to know whether M. WALEWSKI and Count RECHBERG would be able to adopt what the Plenipotentiaries could not do, namely, fall in. The difficulties are serious, for Austria stipulated as an indispensable condition of peace the restoration of the Dukes of Tuscany and Modena; as for the Duchess of Parma, she was not considered at all; she was left to the mercy of Monsieur de Vienne, as they might prefer to deal with her; but Parma, Tuscany, Modena, the Duchess excepted, declared he would not return, even but on the condition that the Duke were restored to their thrones. The Emperor of the French, of whom it is [illegible] to say that he had had enough of war, and was willing at almost any sacrifice to bring it to a conclusion, had no alternative but to accept the conditions. The acceptance exists, but it is not true that a written agreement exists, but force should be employed by either the single or the double-headed eagle in restoration. The treaty of Villafranca is almost on this point; and the Emperor NAPOLEON has more than once pledged himself that nothing shall be done by arms. Force or no force, it is certain, however, that both sovereigns have agreed on a restoration.

THE DUTY OF ITALY IN THE CRISIS.

From the London Times.

Under the protection of the Imperial promise the course of Central Italy to freedom and prosperity seems safe and sure. A little firmness to repel the not too formidable or too earnestly-directed blandishments of Prince PONIATOWSKI, a resolute ingratitude towards their liberator, whose leader heart will be wounded by their obstinacy, but will perhaps be healed again by their acclamations, and the names of the deposed dynasties will be heard no more in Italy. The next step is already resolved upon. They have unanimously desired to weld themselves into one kingdom whereof VICTOR EMMANUEL shall be the first Sovereign. We cannot conceive that, if all chance for Prince NAPOLEON be put out of the question, the French Emperor can have any hearty objection to such an amalgamation. This work of the restoration of Italy will be, if it shall endure, the principal glory of his reign. He will naturally desire that it should be as marked a success, and give as visible a monument to posterity as possible. Piedmont, with twenty more Duchies amalgamated with it, could offer no object of jealousy or distrust to France. It is not comprehensible, therefore, that any stronger sentiment than diplomatic delicacy can induce him to put pressure upon the King of Sardinia to refuse the territory now proffered to him. Moreover, we now know that this pressure will be entirely of an argumentative and diplomatic character. It seems to us, therefore, as matters now stand, that VICTOR EMMANUEL cannot refuse the offer of the Duchies. It would, perhaps, not be prudent definitively to accept it. Perhaps it would be more wise to assume the Government provisionally, and thus preserve order, prevent further revolution, and keep out other candidates until the new order of things is consolidated. But unless some very rash or very mad course of conduct should occur to mar the prospect, the unity of Italy is now secure. We will add that the Emperor has a right to say, "To me Italy owes her independence."

STATE OF AFFAIRS AT ROME.

A letter from Rome of the 23d ult. informs us that a military commission appointed to investigate the affair of Perugia had delivered a judgment condemning the chiefs of the revolution. The Government quashed the judgment for informality, and commanded a new trial.

The Sacred College has lost another of its members in the person of Cardinal FALCONIERI-MELLINI. He died on the 22d, at Ravenna, of which he was Archbishop since the year 1825. With this Cardinal becomes extinct one of the most distinguished Roman and Tuscan families, and Ravenna has lost a prelate who was the protector of the poor. His Eminence was likewise Secretary of the Memorialli at Rome, a position formerly of great importance.

Monsignor SPACCA-PIZZRA, who was Archbishop of Trinidad, has arrived at Rome. This learned prelate, who is a member of the congregation of Lazarists, has resigned the Archbishopric of Trinidad, where he resided six years. The Holy Father has commissioned him to proceed to Jerusalem, to inquire into the serious differences which exist between the Latin Patriarch and the Franciscan Friars, who are in possession of the Holy Places.

The Roman Minister of Finance at the beginning of this year published the budget for 1859, which showed a surplus of 86,000 crowns over the expenditure. The budget has been examined by the Council of State, and approved by His Holiness. Unfortunately, at the end of the year the expenses as calculated in the budget are almost always found to be increased, in consequence of the extraordinary credits demanded by several Ministers. Up to the present period the budget has been increased by 500,000 crowns and more. During previous years of scarcity the Roman Government sold bread to the working classes at a lower price than that charged by the bakers. This entailed a loss of 105,000 crowns. The budget of 1859 has been further increased by 100,000 crowns for the expenses of the Camerale printing-house.

It is said that the Pontifical Government is about to publish various decrees. It is remarked that the secret printing-house of the Quirinal is actively employed.

The Pope is resolved to reduce the Legations to obedience before he introduces any measures of reform, and, as his own forces are not sufficient to support the insurrection, he must demand the aid of the Catholic Powers.

Many of the Swiss who quitted the service of the King of Naples have requested an engagement of the Pope, and have been accepted.

The Holy Father does not quit his study, in consequence of a slight sore on his leg; otherwise he enjoys excellent health, and gives his usual receptions.

The Duke DE GRAMONT, the French Ambassador, is not expected to return to Rome before the end of the month.

Subsequent advices have been received to the 27th ult. The Duke DE GRAMONT had held a conference with Cardinal ANTONELLI on the subject of the reorganization of the Legations.

It is asserted that the Government of Bologna had dissolved a regiment in which some MAZZINI volunteers had attempted to cause an excitement. One French division only will remain in Rome. The garrison of the Pope is on march to Pesaro, where the troops are being concentrated.

An earthquake had taken place at Norcia; 200 persons were killed and a large number injured; 5,000 of the population are encamped in the neighborhood of the town. The Pope has dispatched assistance.

AFFAIRS IN THE CENTRAL STATES.

M. PONIATOWSKI writes to his chief, M. WALEWSKI that he has great hopes of succeeding in his mission, which is understood to be the restoration of the Grand Duke.

A deputation of the Modenese National Assembly, composed of the Commendator MALENGHI, (President,) Marquis FORTANELLI, and Count ARIANI, left on the 20th ult., for Paris, intrusted with a special mission to His Majesty the Emperor NAPOLEON III.

The departure of the deputation of the Tuscan National Assembly for Turin, which was to take place on the 20th, had been delayed for several days.

Advices from Bologna, of the 26th ult., state that the elections throughout the Romagna had taken place with the greatest tranquillity and order.

The first results of the electoral assemblies of Bologna are the following: Count BENTIVOGLIO, Prince HERCOLANI, Prince SIMONETTI, Count MARSILI, Signor MINGHETTI, and Signor ALESSANDRINI.

The official Piedmontese Gazette gives a denial to the reports of political dissension existing among the members of the Sardinian Cabinet. Count ARESE left on the evening of the 29th for Paris.

NAPLES.—THE APPREHENDED FAMINE.

A Naples letter, of the 23d, gives some account of the departure of the Swiss troops:

"At an early hour in the morning 1,1729 Swiss soldiers and 48 officers, all belonging to the Fourth Regiment, marched through the city to the arsenal. They had their arms and baggage, with the Swiss flag displayed, and were headed by their band. Four companies of Neapolitan marines were drawn up at the arsenal, to whom the Swiss delivered up their arms in the most perfect order. By way of prudence, or rather from mistrust, other troops, all with their muskets loaded, were kept concealed in the arsenal, but the precaution was unnecessary. Each Swiss soldier, after having delivered up his arms, received by way of indemnity a year's pay, amounting to 26 ducats, (34d.) The officers who could not claim a pension (after 20 years' service) received three months' pay and their traveling expenses. These soldiers received their money in full before embarking in two merchant vessels, which were taken in tow by the steam-frigate Veloce. Other departures will take place at intervals, in order not to cause too many to be at Marseilles at the same time, as the railroad can only convey 500 a day."

The same letter says:

"Much excitement is caused among the people by the high price of corn, and the Government has just given orders for the purchase abroad of 100,000,000 ducats' worth. Several vessels laden with maize have arrived from Sicily. This Winter there will be again the sad spectacle of bread being distributed to the people. Would it not be a better policy, instead of allowing them to remain in ignorance and idleness, to give them employment which they stand in need of, and which might be supplied by the creation of great public works, which are everywhere called for in the country?"

FRANCE.

A Speech for Peace with England M. de Morny to the Council-General of Puy-de-Dome—The Army and the Navy.

THE RELATIONS OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND—SPEECH OF M. DE MORNY.

In his speech at the opening of the Council-General of the Department of Puy-de-Dome, Count DE MORNY, the President of the Legislative Body, spoke as follows:

You have participated, gentlemen, in the enthusiasm excited by our victories, you have shared in the unanimous gratitude of France for the great moderation of the Emperor. But you find it difficult to understand how his Majesty's evident desire to prevent a European conflagration can have caused in England the newspaper articles, the Parliamentary speeches, and the warlike preparations of which so much has been said. You know, without doubt, by means of what logic the English explain their apprehensions. They say, "Our Press is free; the French Press is not so; therefore insults have not the same importance in one as in the other." That is quite an error. There are in France no means of preventing a journal from publishing what seems to it right; the Government is only armed against the Press with the power of warning and of suspension, which are repressive measures. The English add, "The Emperor retains at the bottom of his heart the desire to avenge Waterloo and St. Helena; he only concluded peace with the Emperor of Russia in order to make him an ally; he has been generous to the Emperor of Austria only to make a friend of him also; and with that double alliance he intends to attack England." I do not think it inopportune to tell you what I think on that subject. We live at a period when the hatreds of castes and families have succumbed to the increased mildness of manners, and at which national hatred and prejudice have been effaced by civilization. The new generations have something else to do than to avenge the past; they are too enlightened to act on any other motive than the interest of the present and the future. The Emperor and the present generation of Frenchmen are not of those of whom it can be said, "They have learned nothing and forgotten nothing." As for the generous proceedings between the three Emperors, to ascribe them to the speculative object indicated above, is it not to reduce to the proportions of a paltry theatrical intrigue the regulation of the great interests of Europe, and to degrade the elevated sentiments which God has placed in the heart of a sovereign for the welfare of humanity? Assuredly, I am better able than any other to appreciate the royal fidelity of the Emperor and his pacific intentions; for when he did me the honor to send me to Russia to draw closer the relations between the two empires, the part of my instructions which dominated every other was this: "Do not allow any encroachment to be made on the English alliance; and, far from endeavoring to divide the great Powers, on the contrary point out that if they had the good sense to unite and to come to an understanding, all the paltry difficulties which arise in Europe may be solved peacefully." Need I recall to your memory the incidents which preceded the war with Austria in order to prove that the Emperor NAPOLEON, while desiring to free Italy, and to disengage the frontier of France from Austrian pressure, would have preferred obtaining that object by a Congress rather by a war? The number and the state of our army at the moment when the ultimatum of Austria was issued prove this. And if the statesmen of England, who now consider that enough has not been done for the Italians, had consented before the war to express the sympathies which they now manifest, it is to be presumed that the affairs of Italy would have been regulated by diplomacy. I repeat that, after all the Emperor has done and said, to suspect him of preparing in secret, without any other motive than ancient enmity, an enterprise which would throw into confusion the gravest interests in the world, and would be the most fatal blow to civilization, is to doubt his word and his heart as a sovereign and a man."

After expressing the opinion that perhaps the attempts which have been made by certain newspapers and speakers in England to excite distrust of France were only inspired by the desire of the one to increase their circulation and of the other to gain popularity, Count DE MORNY went on to say:—

"Time and the determination of the Emperor to lead France into the occupations and labors of peace will, I doubt not, triumph over chimerical fears. That, gentlemen, is the sort of war which we must wage with England. Let us resolutely terminate our means of conveyance and of circulation; let us put them in communication with our colonies; let us reduce the enormous price of all raw materials and of all our manufactured articles; let us imitate the English in what we are deficient; let us gain strength from the spirit of association without continually requiring the support of the Government; let us endeavor to conquer, and by prudent use, preserve the liberties which make a man absolute master of his own welfare, and which have no other limits than the wrong done to others. Yes, let us make on England a manufacturing and commercial war—a conflict of progress and civilization, loyal, amicable, and which will be advantageous to all. That is what the Emperor desires; let us second his efforts. Already is the amnesty a work of pacification, which is the prelude of the system into which we are about to enter. Let us hope that it will be so so understood by everybody, especially by those who are the object of it."

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

From the London News.

M. DE MORNY begins by ascribing English armaments to newspaper articles and Parliamentary speeches, and the latter to the dissatisfaction of England at the manifest desire of the Emperor to avoid a European conflagration. He goes on to assert that there are no means in France of preventing a newspaper from publishing what it likes, and that in fact the French Press is just as responsible for what it writes as the English, and no more. By the light of this singular interpretation of facts we are enabled to judge M. DE MORNY's appeal against the prejudices and passions of public opinion in this country. For the rest, we are perfectly ready to appreciate the fairness and frankness with which he singles out the prevailing causes of alarm and doubt which have undoubtedly existed of late, whilst to the general terms in which he discusses and disposes of them we are as far as possible from objecting. "Nobody," says M. DE MORNY, with reasonable emphasis, "can estimate so well as myself the loyal faith of the Emperor;" and we fully accept the assurance; but we must be permitted to whisper very gently into the ear of the President of the Corps Legislatif that no one knows better than those two distinguished persons the advantages of silence, secrecy, and suddenness in grand political operations; and perhaps it is because people in England have been disposed to pay a compliment to political, at the expense of moral qualifications, that they hesitate to attribute to the same persons and the same policy, the hand that plots and the hand that strikes on a sudden with the heart of the injured philanthropist, alive to every honest impulse, and the soul of an apostle of peace awake to every generous motion.

At any rate, we heartily echo M. DE MORNY's stirring appeal to the good feeling and good sense of the two great nations of the West. By all means let our future rivalry (if rivalry there must be) be a rivalry of industrial and commercial enterprise. We have had enough of glory long ago, and enough of conquest. We know no battle by land or sea in which France had not her full share of honor. Surely France may be contented to fight the future battles of civilization (if battles there must be) side by side with the honorable foes of old time, and the comrades in arms of later and happier years. We believe that in spite of evil omens, the intellect, the enterprise, the best feelings, and the dearest interests of England, and that both cry Peace. But there is one thing needful to make the desire of all good people on either side of the water a reasonable certainty, and that is—Liberty. With an equal, we do not say a similar, liberty enjoyed by our neighbors and by ourselves, every cloud that intercepts a better future would clear away before the light, and every mist of prejudice and passion be dispersed.

From the Paris Constitutionnel.

Shall we have war with England? and why? Because it has placed some parliamentary orators, too faithful to the recollection of the rivalries and hatreds of another age to take alarm without cause, and loudly to demand armaments without necessity, does it follow that a general conflagration will take place? Because certain journals in England, yielding to one knows not what pressure, have honored us for some time with their daily philippics, we must conclude that they are the real exponents of public opinion, and that they will have sufficient influence to precipitate the signal of a new secular struggle? France is reproached with her warlike mood; to the Emperor is attributed the design, long since formed, of avenging Waterloo and St. Helena. And by what right? Should it not, on the contrary, be remembered that he has trodden beneath his feet as well old hatreds as recent injuries? Far from cherishing any aggressive intentions is it not he who, for the sake of consolidating the English alliance, has actually on every occasion combated our hereditary prejudices? If, instead of restraining the national animosity, anxious only for an ephemeral popularity, he had excited it, who can say that at his voice France would not have risen as one man? He did not speak the word. He felt that a war between England and France would be a fratricidal war, a war waged by civilization itself against civilization, and the same motive which had counseled him to the union of the two great western powers, determined him to make every sacrifice to assure their permanence. At the elevation at which the Emperor is placed, the thought is not to avenge the past, but to prepare the future. If the countries cannot forget their ancient rivalry, let at least that rivalry be made to serve the cause of progress instead of compromising it. If we must at all price do battle, let us so manage that the battle shall produce fruits.

MILITARY AND NAVAL MOVEMENTS.

The troops forming the garrisons in the third and fourth divisions, the head-quarters of which are at Lille and Chalons on the Marne, have been considerably increased.

The regiments of the Imperial Guard having suffered severe losses at Magenta and Solferino are being reorganized, and the vacancies caused by death filled up. The fourth battalion of the Imperial Guard is also maintained. Government is about to increase the artillery, but the cavalry is to be diminished.

A correspondent from Toulon, after announcing certain reductions in the French fleet, says: "The reduction of the squadron of evolutions to what it was before the recent great events (it is weaker indeed than it was, because it contains so many new heads) will cease, it is hoped, to excite the jealousy of England, which will have no longer any pretext for maintaining in the Mediterranean that fleet of fifty sail, which recently made no objections on appearance on the coast of Egypt."

AGITATION FOR GERMAN UNITY.

Correspondence of the London Times.

BERLIN, Thursday, Aug. 25, 1859.

There can be no question that the agitation which now prevails through every part of Germany will, before the close of the year, give rise to important events. Every post brings evidence in public papers and private letters of the rapid spread of the feeling to which the Wiesbaden Declaration first gave utterance two months ago. It is so general, that even the Governments of the small States—the most despotic in Europe—do not attempt, at least openly, to repress or to punish it. It is not now a question of Prussian hegemony, but of union in any fashion, provided it be a real union, productive of unity of action, both military and diplomatic. Germany is slow to move, but whoever knows Germany knows what elements are at work within her, and how irresistibly the popular feeling, when once roused, overthrows all obstacles. The lessons of '48 have not been lost, and we may fairly expect that the present movement will result in something more sober and practical if less ambitious, than the declamations of Frankfort. The sobriety of the declarations which are being signed all over the country, the guarded expressions used in them, the anxiety which all parties show to arrive at a common understanding, are the proofs that not theoretical visionaries, but thinking citizens are the actors. It is no longer a crew of enthusiastic, beer-imbibing, fatherland-ballad-singing students, but the deliberate demand of men of all ranks and all ages, the aforesaid students not excepted. These last may be cited as affording the strongest evidence of the intensity of the feeling, in some at least of the Universities—I cannot, of course, speak for all—they have come to a resolution that, whatever differences of opinion there may be, there shall be no duelling on this subject—as remarkable an instance of self-imposed restraint as the Golden Legend contains. This renunciation of the pleasant side of a question which promised so many slashed cheeks and truncated noses, the proudest badges of a Bursche, is not the laughing matter English readers may think it, but the sign of an earnestness of purpose, which only the feeling of their common country's danger could have inspired. This union of Germany has been the aim of all her ablest statesmen since ULRICH VON HUTTEN, soldier, poet and satirist, first conceived the idea. If it is now effected, France and Austria, in spite of themselves, will have more than undone the injuries of centuries, at the same time affording the world the best pledge of future peace.

AFFAIRS IN PRUSSIA.

The Times correspondent says: The change of ministry in Austria, which was looked forward to here with hopes that it would lead to a better understanding between the two Cabinets, has disappointed expectation.

The cholera spreads along the shores of the Baltic. Its presence in Dantzic is officially acknowledged, as well as in Osnabruck and Elberfeld, and it is reported to have made considerable ravages at Hamburg.

The King was so much better on the 23th ult. that the Gazette was able to announce that on Sunday the last bulletin would be published.

It is at length announced that the whole of the Russian loan has been subscribed, and that the applicants will receive the full sum they subscribed for—so accurately had the public gauged the present necessities of the Czar.

THE BAVARIAN LOAN.

A new combination has been formed by the Bank of Nuremberg, the Bank of Frankfort, the House of Rothschild, the Banking-house of M. ERLANGER, and Messrs. HIRSCH & FRIEDLICH, for contracting the Bavarian four and a half per cent. loan, to defray the military expenses.

Eight millions of florins of the loan have been left for public subscription.

SPAIN.

The correspondent to the Chronicle says that six hundred Moors attacked Ceuta, but were put to flight by the Governor, at the head of his garrison, and eight killed. The Spanish Government has sent reinforcements by steamer.

GREECE.

The correspondent of the Morning Herald says: Advices from Athens announce that the Chamber has been dissolved, and that a royal decree has ordered a new one to be elected. The day fixed is not mentioned.

THE UNITED STATES SLOOP-OF-WAR LEVANT AT RIO—DISTURBANCES AMONG SAILORS—CONFLAGRATION—STATE OF THE MARKETS—SHIPPING.

Our files of Rio papers extend to the 25th of July.

There is no political news of interest.

The United States sloop-of-war Levant, Commander HUNT, was lying in the harbor. On July 17 a fracas had occurred between some of the men-of-war's-men and boatmen in the harbor, in which two of the latter had been knocked overboard and drowned. The police were unable to make any arrests.

On the following day an encounter took place in the streets between American sailors and some of the citizens, but it was terminated by the interference of the authorities.

A fire on the 19th of July destroyed the coffee warehouse of Messrs. FURQUIM & BROTHER, on the street of the Benedictines. The coffee in the building, consisting of 2,800 bags, together with the books and papers, was saved.

The 18th anniversary of the coronation of DOM PEDRO II. was observed July 17.

The following American vessels were in the port of Rio on the 23d July:

The Russell of New-York, the Sparkling Wave of New-York, the Westminster of Pensacola, the Old Hickory of Fernandina, the F. S. Means of Darien, the Statesman of Newport, the Castor of Mobile, the Antagonist of New-York, the Kedron of Boston, the the Warren Hallett of Boston, the James S. Davis of Richmond, the Benito of New-York, the Addison Child of Charleston, the Campanero of Savannah, the Peter Warwick of Baltimore, the Clifton of Baltimore, the Chase of Baltimore, the Glenwood of Darien, the George Maughan of Savannah, the Lucy Elizabeth of Montevideo, the Esther of Richmond, and the Mount Vernon of Philadelphia.

Exchange on London was quoted at 24⅜d.

Freights to the Northern United States at 45c.@50c.

Brazilian ounces were bringing 22 milreis.

The quotations for coffee were, for good 5$320 ⅌ arroba, for the superfine, 6 milreis.

Later from the Dominican Republic.

BUSINESS AT PORT AU PLATTE—COUNTERFEITERS FROM THE UNITED STATES—IMPENDING POLITICAL CHANGE.

By the brig John Butler, Capt. MINER, we have dates to 1st inst.

Business was very dull, as the tobacco crop was nearly all bought up.

Exchange—Paper for gold, $2 50 national for $1, and not much paper. Very little hard money in circulation.

The three individuals detected two months since in the act of landing and passing counterfeit paper money from the United States, escaped from the jail at Santiago about 27th ult., together with the jailkeeper. A fine thing to have friends, with a few doubloons at their disposal.

The people generally are much dissatisfied with the prevailing Government, and predict a revolution shortly. There would not, probably, be much fighting. All that would be necessary would be for a majority to declare, &c., &c. The treasury is kept dry as usual. All moneys are forwarded to the city.

Letters from Zante (Ionian Islands) of 16th August, 1859, state that the current crop this year is in a very prosperous condition. The blight, which for five or six seasons past has caused the total destruction of the vines, has entirely disappeared. Zante would perhaps make twelve million pounds, of very excellent quality; Cephalonia, thirteen millions; and Morea, fifty millions.

NEW-YORK POLITICS.

The Democratic State Convention at Syracuse.

GATHERING OF THE DELEGATES.

Probable Action Relative to the Charleston Convention.

CAUCUSES OF THE WOOD AND DICKINSON MEN.

The Present State Ticket to be Renominated.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, Sept. 13—12 P. M.

The Democratic Convention will organize to-morrow.

The Tammany Delegation will be received without controversy.

The Convention will elect delegates to Charleston. An earnest spirit of reconciliation appears to prevail. ISAAC V. FOWLER will probably be presented as delegate at large. Messrs. KENNEDY, SWEETZER, COZZENS, TRAINER, CONOLLY and CLANCY decline going to Charleston, in order to make room for representatives of other interests.

The Wood men held a caucus this evening, which the Dickenson men refused to attend. The friends of DICKENSON here also held a caucus, to determine whether they would sustain the regular or irregular organization of New-York City, and have adjourned without coming to a conclusion.

The present State ticket will be renominated, with the exception of Secretary of State TOUCEY, who declines; and D. R. FLOYD of Queens, WOOD of Brooklyn, SAVAGE of New-York, and Senator SCOTT are being talked of to succeed him.

It is intended to represent all Democratic interests on the State ticket, and in election of delegates to Charleston.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, Sept. 13.

The attendance both inside and outside the Convention is already large, and the prominent men of the party have taken the field early.

The head-quarters of both wings of the Democracy are at the Voorhees House, the rooms of FERNANDO WOOD and PETER CAGNEY being in close proximity, while those of ISAAC V. FOWLER, with the whole string of Tammany Delegates, are only a few doors removed.

The appearances at the quarters of WOOD and CAGNEY give a fair criterion of the complexion of the Convention. The former are quiet, with plain indications of firmness on their countenances as they pass in and out, while the latter are crowded to their fullest capacity with a confidential air apparent in all.

Numerically, as between the Hards who are in favor of the District system and the Softs who are in favor of electing the Charleston delegates at once, the Convention will stand as follows: 70 to 72 Softs; 24 to 26 Hards. This calculation is closely made and is probably correct, though the Wood men claim a larger number.

Hon. DANIEL S. DICKENSON is at the Syracuse House, and has been visited by Messrs. CASSIDY and COWSLOCK, of the Atlas and Argus, Comptroller CHANDLER, and a number of others, including FERNANDO WOOD and the Mozart Hall delegation.

The position of Mr. DICKENSON is that of conciliation. He desires a harmonious arrangement as to the organization, and a fair representation of the Hards on the Charleston delegation.

DEAN RICHMOND and the Western delegation of Softs are at the Syracuse House.

The old State officers are to be renominated, with the exception of the Hon. GERRIT S. TOUCEY, Secretary of State, who declines a renomination, and whose place will probably be filled by FLOYD JONES or Judge SCOTT. To-night the chances favor the former. Mr. SCHERMERHORN, of Herkimer, and Judge SCOTT, are talked of for Canal Commissioners.

The Convention will be temporarily organized, with S. T. FAIRCHILD, a Cass-Democrat, of Madison, or, perhaps, JOHN SCHEFER, of Rome, for President.

The permanent President will be WILLIAM H. LUDLOW, unless some change of the programme takes place before morning.

The probability now seems to be that there will be very few contested seats, many thought to be contested declining to appear.

The New-York case will most likely be settled by a resolution declaring that, as the last Convention decided in favor of the Tammany delegates, and no new features have arisen since, the Tammany delegates are entitled to seats. This will exclude FERNANDO WOOD from the floor, but in that case he will take the seat of LEWIS A. EDWARDS, of Suffolk, who has the power of substitution on the Mozart Hall side. Mr. WOOD claims a greater number than is here given him, and insists on having the case of the New-York contested seats heard before the Convention.

Appearances now indicate that all will be harmonious between the friends of Mr. DICKENSON and the Softs.

The Charleston Delegation will undoubtedly be chosen now. The Hards will have probably two delegates at large to two Softs, and one-third or rather more of the State Delegation.

The Wood Party held a caucus this evening which was largely attended, although Messrs. MATHER and SCHELL, and some other Dickinson men remained outside. Speeches were made by Messrs. WOOD, JOHN A. GREENE, Jr., and others, all friendly, insisting on an equal division of the Charleston Delegation, and the State Committee, and an equal representation for Tammany and Mozart Hall in the Convention. The speeches were resolute, but conciliatory in tone. Mr. RUSSELL, of Ulster, waited on the Softs to ascertain the truth of a rumor that no delegate would be admitted without tickets, and no tickets issued to any contestants. The Hards were informed that every delegate and contestant would receive tickets and be admitted to the floor. The Hards thereupon resolved to accept tickets this time in view of the emergency of the case, but declared against receiving tickets or submitting to that mode of admission hereafter. They resolved also to present the name of THOMAS G. ALVORD, Ex-Speaker of the Assembly, for presiding officer of the Convention. The Wood men insist further on choosing their own share of the Charleston delegation. If they have the privilege of doing so they will name FERNANDO WOOD and JOHN A. GREENE, Jr., of Onondaga, as delegates at large. On the Soft side it is proposed to concede DELOS DE WOLF and Mr. BROWSON or Mr. SCHELL as delegates at large. DEAN RICHMOND will be delegate at large on the Soft side, and probably ISAAC V. FOWLER.

Among the candidates for State delegates are GEORGE SANDERS, NELSON J. WATERBURY, Hon. JOHN C. MATHER, JOHN COCHRANE, Judge CAPRON, and Judge BERRIAN.

Mr. DICKENSON appears anxious to conciliate, but wishes the Mozart Hall delegates to have a representation in the Convention.

Dr. SAWYER, of Blackwell's Island, is offered the nomination of State Prison Inspector, and will be nominated if he will accept.

Comptroller CHANDLER and Attorney-General TAUMADGE have been actively engaged to effect a compromise, and come to an harmonious agreement with Mr. WOOD.

NEWS FROM MEXICO.

The Rule Minister of Foreign Relations—Departure of Mr. Ormsby, Military Operations—Letter from the Pacific States—Status of the Republic from Native Testimony.

By the arrival of the steamship Alabama, of the Tehuantepec line, at New-Orleans, we receive our files of Vera Cruz journals to Aug. 25.

An outline of the news has already been forwarded by telegraph. Additional details are of interest.

On the 20th of August, Señor Ocampo resigned the position of Minister of Foreign Relations in the Juarez Cabinet, and Señor Don Juan Antonia de la Fuente has been appointed in his place. Ocampo still remaining Minister of War and Finance. Mr. Fuentes filled that position in the Cabinet of Congreves, and is highly spoken of by those who know him, and he does seem like a very intelligent and well-meaning man.

Mr. Ormsby, the British Minister, was expected at Vera Cruz, to embark for England on the English packet of the 4th of September. Mr. Gould, an attaché of the British Legation in Mexico, who came passenger in the Virginia Antonetta, left for the City of Mexico on the 24th.

The Reforma, of Vera Cruz, distinctly and officially denies that Señor Tejada has any idea of procuring Americans to fight the Mexican battles. That paper says the special Minister only desires to negotiate a small loan on the good faith and credit of the Mexican Government.

The mails from the north and east represent the States of New-Leon, Durango, Coahuila, Sivalva, Zacatecas, Aguascalientes, San Luis Potosi and Tamaulipas to be enjoying all the benefits of peace and order.

A letter from Mexico says that the Church allows Miramon $2,000 per day for the use of his army and Government.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS.

Degollado has taken up his head-quarters at San Luis Potosi. In answer to his call for troops, &c., Degollado will succeed in raising about 12,000 men, and with these he hopes, as he says, to reduce the City of Mexico by next October. Zacatecas raises 2,000 men; Sinaloa already has that number in the field; Guadalajara, Colima, Tamaulipas Nuevo-Leon, Coahuila, Vera Cruz, Guerrero and Oajaca will also send contingents. Vera Cruz will be exempt, because she needs her contingent to defend the city. Good arms and a plentiful supply of munitions will add to attendance to make the war more effective. All these matters considered, the position of the Liberals seems flattering enough, and with any other people the prospect would be one of certain peace in a short time.

Gov. Garcia, of Tampico, at the head of 250 riflemen, has started for the interior to join the army under Gen. Degollado.

Gen. Corona has marched out of Tepic with 2,500 men, in the direction of Guadalajara, where he intends to assist in the seige of Marquez.

A proposition is under consideration in the City of Mexico to introduce eight or ten thousand Spanish soldiers in this country, to counterbalance the Americans.

Constant receipts of arms and munitions of war are being received from the Eastern States and California, for the use of the Liberal Party.

An artillerist in Mexico has submitted a plan of taking Vera Cruz, which he assures Miramon can be done in "no time," and without loss. His idea is to cast an immense mortar, which will throw a bomb two feet in diameter, charged with twenty-five pounds of powder, a distance of three miles.

The Indian war, or rather the war of races, has broken out with renewed fury in Yucatan. The Indians were defeated, however, at the town of Ichmul.

FROM THE PACIFIC STATES.

Dates are from Guaymas, July 31, San Blas, Aug. 1, and Mazatlan, Aug. 4.

The Indians were still troublesome in Sonora; two or three tribes had organized under one leadership, and at last accounts, were committing serious depredations upon the inhabitants. Jose Pasquiera, with his troops, met a large body of Indians at San Antonio, when a terrible battle was fought, in which upwards of 300 of the latter were killed. Political matters and business were very quiet; some little speculations in land were going on.

In Sinaloa all was quiet. No counter-movement or opposition to the Liberal Government has been attempted since its capture by Pasquiera. The capital of this State is now permanently located at Mazatlan. A large number of arms, including eight handsome field-pieces, (made in San Francisco) reached Mazatlan about the 1st of August. Business at this thriving port has been unusually good; on the 15th of July five large American vessels were in port.

In the adjoining State of Jalisco there had been much fighting. Tepic was captured in June by the Liberals, and afterwards abandoned. It is now in the hands of "Jozado," a robber chief, operating with the Church party. San Blas, the port, is however in possession of the Liberals.

Marquez was on the road to the latter port with a contingent of $2,000,000 from Mexico and Guadalajara. The British ship-of-war Calypso was in readiness to receive it, though it was thought the commander of the Liberal Party (Nozzos, an American) would prevent its embarkation. Difficulty between the English commander and Nozzos may grow out of this. The latter is determined that it shall not leave unless the proper duties are paid upon it. The English are confident of success in getting it off; All hands were busily engaged, on the 1st of August, making boxes for it. If they succeed, it will be taken to Panama and shipped to England.

The Liberals have determined to dislodge Marquez from his stronghold, and if possible to break up his army. Gen. Corona was to have left Mazatlan on the 5th of August with a large body of men for Istlan, where he would join the forces of the Governor of Jalisco, and both march direct for Guadalajara.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Madame Miramon gave birth on the 17th ult. to a son and heir. Great rejoicings occurred in Mexico at his baptism on the 18th.

A mercilessness friar, caught in the act of stealing the jewelry from the Virgin, in the church at Oajaca, is on trial, and will no doubt be severely punished.

"Three Years in the United States" is the name of a new book just published in Vera Cruz, which is said to be quite interesting.

CONDITION OF MEXICO—TESTIMONY OF MEXICAN AUTHORITIES.

Neither of the letters which follow, says the New-Orleans Picayune, were originally intended for the press. Both were strictly private and written by native Mexican citizens, residents in the cities from which they date:

Vera Cruz, Thursday, Aug. 25, 1859.

Everywhere, from every State, we hear of the most active preparations being made by the Liberals to continue the strife, which in my opinion cannot cease till the triumph of good principle. The people are every where arming; Sonoraens is arming, and Tamaulipas, Nueve-Leon and Coahuila, San Luis, Colima, Michoacan and Sinaloa, are sending in their contingents to the orders of our valiant commander-in-chief, Degollado. The plan of the campaign is a march direct upon the stock of the capital, the focus and last entrenchment of the enemy.

But a greater victory even than that, we have already obtained, and that is in the triumph of the reaction in public opinion. These have been received, even in places in the hands of the reaction, with marked approbation and sympathy. The success of the last eighteen months, in which we are engaged, has, in a moral point of view extraordinary. The clergy have lost the "hood" which formerly screened them from common view. They have lost credit completely. The Church property, of which they have made such bad use, finds purchasers in every class of society, nor does the transaction frustrate the interests of any one.

The outcry which the clergy just raised on seeing themselves deprived of the property they had usurped, becomes day by day less feeble. There are no echoes to be heard anywhere, and all will soon be quiet again. There is to be a grand meeting of the Bishops soon at the capital, however, to take the matter into consideration. Perhaps they may do something yet.

As to the famous loan—the financial scheme of Pena y Pena—nothing has come out of it, and, at last accounts, it was about being given up. And thus we go on emerging the boundaries of theory, only to make ourselves ridiculous in the eyes of all, and without gain whatever. The reactionary troops, the common soldiery, live on what they can steal in town and country, while the officers in command of the outposts, like Rosalio Pereda at Jalapa, would sell their commissions for a pot of soup.

City of Mexico, Saturday, Aug. 20, 1859.

Since my last, of the 11th instant, nothing of great importance has transpired in political circles here, though affairs still continue to go on from bad to worse. The long-pending quarrel between Miramon and Marquez has at length come to an open issue. These chieftains are now declared enemies. Marquez, it is true, has had prudence enough not to dignify himself and party by any very public demonstration of his enmity. But Miramon, who acts as though he were the President "elect" and not the substitute, imposes upon himself no such restraint. A few days since, indeed, it was rumored abroad that he was taking out an expedition against his rival, who at Guadalajara, openly repudiates his authority. But whatever his intentions may have been, it is certain that the plan failed to give him more money, without which any expedition is impossible.

Any, even the most, well met, be surprised to learn that pillage, one, of the principal employees of the army here have received a cent of pay for months. Their misery is very great, as you may well suppose. How, indeed, they manage to live surpasses comprehension. Desertions, therefore, are very numerous, and in view of the campaign organizing against them, begin to alarm the defenders of the Church.

Several officers of the Eighth Regiment of Infantry arrived here, yesterday, as prisoners, under an escort from the corps commanded by Gen. Romano at Jalapa. This regiment was in open mutiny on account of the back pay claimed of their men, when Romano surprised them, with a superior force, in their quarters, and arrested the principal leaders.

Our clergy are still in a state of great excitement about the recent decrees of Juarez, but they find but little sympathy here. The Miramon Party, in fact, look upon the clergy only as their bankers, which the party of Marquez is not strong enough to give them much assistance. As for Gabriac, the French Minister, he would like to do something for his friends, but he dare not act without the approbation of his superiors, who is at present a little piqued at the Archbishop for having imposed upon her a hard penalty at the absolution. The representatives of the ultra-reactionary party are, as was known, Miramon, Penas, Marquez, Woll, Velez, Mejia, Cadilla and Pereda; and all of them talk of what they will do next Summer, (Summer begins in Mexico on the 1st of November,) but it is impossible for any one to comprehend what they can do with an exhausted treasury, an exhausted people, and a completely demoralized army. It is true the Neue Grut Party are not any better off; perhaps I might say they have greater difficulties to overcome, but I believe they will receive assistance from the Americans. Have they not recognized that Government?

There was a general satisfaction felt throughout the capital, when we learned that Mr. Ormsby, the British Minister, had received his "leave of absence," and with it orders to deliver up his archives to the care of the legation. The miserable speculator is in a great quandary, inasmuch as he dare not pass through Vera Cruz, and to remain here would only expose him to ridicule and insults. His partner, the indefatigable Gamboa, must have come, himself, also, to reflect seriously upon his own position. A few days since, he expressed his opinion publicly that the Miramon Government was corrupt and rotten to the core. Perhaps we begin to see that it is not impossible his Government might also put a sudden stop to his own wild career. But nothing will save him. The Minister has made himself so odious with all parties that it is impossible for him to remain here much longer. A few days since, indeed, there was serious talk of mobbing his house, but Miramon (according to de Gabriac, a descendant of the old Counts de Miramont of France) got wind of it, and took measures, through his ever true friend, Ladarde, to stop it. Napoleon should imitate Victoria, and recall a man so heartily detested by our people, and who, besides being a dishonor to his country, has brought nothing but disgrace to us.

P. S.—An heir to the throne of Mexico was yesterday born at the palace of the Count de Miramont. It is expected that the christening of the young hero will cost more than would be the expenses of the whole reactionary army for a campaign.

The Silver and Copper Mines of Arizona.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

Apache Pass, Arizona, Sunday, Aug. 14, 1859.

There is so little known of the silver and copper mines of Arizona that any report of them is read with interest. The exaggerated and the almost fabulous accounts on the one hand, and the[ discouraging ones on the other, have so unsettled the public mind that any account having the least semblance of truth is quite likely to be believed.

The first silver mine that had any reputation in the States was the Stevenson mine. It was worked to a profit some time since, but has not been worked for several years. It is now owned by a Company, of which Major Sprague of the army is President. It is thought it is a valuable mine, and can be profitably worked.

The next mine of any value is the Copper Mine of the Mimbres. This is one of the richest mines yet opened; the cost of transportation, however, prevents it being worked to the advantage it should. The members of the family of Judge Hart, of El Paso, are working it, paying from 7c. to 10c. a pound transportation on copper; yet at this price it pays. As soon as the right of way is obtained to the Gulf of California, a much larger profit can be made by working these mines than at present. I believe the copper is disposed of to the mint at Chihuahua.

When the Americans first took an interest in these mines, it was said the copper contained a large amount of gold, enough to pay transportation. A thorough trial proved the fallacy of this opinion. It then was said that the copper was more valuable than that obtained in England or the United States. an experimental shipment to New-York and London proved to the owners that such was not the case, as the copper was worth no more than any other. The mine is now worked as a "Copper Mine," and, in the present unsettled state of the country, to a profit, some two hundred men being employed. It would be difficult to estimate its value when proper facilities are offered to obtain supplies and ship off the copper.

The valley in which the mine is situated is rich and abounding in good timber, which, in the event of building the Southern Railroad, will prove of great value.

The road from here (the copper mines) to Fort Buchanan is through a barren and uninteresting country; in fact, the "spots of country" of any value excepting for mining purposes, are few and far between.

From Fort Buchanan I will endeavor to give you an idea of the mines in the neighborhood. They are numerous, and, I have no doubt, of great value. A day or two since, I saw machinery on the way out for a company, of which Col. Titus is Superintendent. It is said his mines are rich. B.

The Sunday Question.

EFFECT OF SUNDAY RAILROAD TRAVEL IN THE CITIES—LETTERS FROM THE MAYORS OF NEW-YORK, BROOKLYN AND BOSTON—TRIAL OF THE CAR-DRIVER, JEANDELLE, IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Philadelphia papers publish an interesting correspondence on the subject of Sunday travel on city railroads. Letters have been received in Philadelphia from Mayors Tiemann, of this City, Powell, of Brooklyn, and Lincoln, of Boston, in reply to a note of inquiry from the gentleman to whom they are addressed.

Mayor Tiemann writes as follows:

Mayor's Office, New-York, Aug. 26, 1859.

To William B. Thomas, Esq.:

Dear Sir:—Yours of the 2d inst. came duly to hand. I trust, however, you will pardon my neglect in not answering the same before this, the pressure of official business being my excuse for so long delay in giving you my opinion in relation to the questions submitted to me therein.

You state that the propriety of Sunday travel by city passenger railroad cars in your city has become a subject of grave consideration; many of your intelligent, religious and benevolent men entertaining different views on the subject; and that many believe the practice of running such cars on Sundays would ultimately superinduce a total abandonment of that day of rest, and that the congregation of large numbers of persons at the termini of the roads would be provocative of dissipation, disorder and breaches of the peace, and wish my opinion as to whether the running of cars in this City on Sunday has been productive of these consequences; and, also, whether religious men oppose the practice of travel on city railroads on that day.

This City has had some practical experience as to the effect of Sunday travel in rail-cars, and from the observations I have made, and the information I have been enabled to gather from others, I am satisfied that no such deplorable effects as you represent many of your best citizens fear from such travel in your city, have occurred here. I know of no instance of any riot or other disorder having occurred in consequence of the running of such cars on Sunday, nor of any great gathering of disorderly or other persons at the several termini of our railroads on that day. The practice has, on the contrary, been found of great convenience to all classes of our citizens—and the cars, although used on the day alluded to chiefly by a different class from those who travel in them on week days, still many of our best citizens, intelligent and religious, avail themselves of the public accommodation afforded by these cars on Sundays in going to and from the several churches in our City, and in other acts which the most strictly religious would admit as compatible with the observance of that holy day.

There are some six lines of railroads in our City, all of them running from the lower to the upper part of it, and two of them extending their trips as far as Harlem, a distance of eight miles from the lower termini, and although they are filled with passengers, more than on other days, no disturbance has ever to my knowledge occurred in them, or in consequence of their running on that day.

It is now but a few years since the facilities for travel by rail-cars on Sunday have been afforded to our citizens. Previous to 1851, but one mode of public conveyance was available for any passengers from the lower to the upper part of the City, viz: the cars of the Harlem Railroad Company; and before the construction of that road in 1832, there was no means for our citizens to go from one part of the city to the other. The necessity, however, was not then so much felt as it would be now, in case of the withdrawal of the cars from the several lines of the City railroads; for then the City was of a much less population, and a short walk from almost any part of it would bring the pedestrian to the green fields of the suburbs. Our population has since then so rapidly grown, and the limits of the densely-populated part of the City so far extended up town, that our lines of railroads have become matters of great public necessity and convenience, not only on week days, but also on Sunday; and even if the cars on them were withdrawn on that day voluntarily by the directors or proprietors thereof, public opinion, based on public necessity, would soon compel their running again.

In a city with a small population, I will admit, there can be no great public necessity for these conveyances on Sunday, but in a large and densely-populated metropolis, situated on an island extending in the extreme limits from eight to thirteen miles, and not more than two miles wide in any part of it, they are absolutely required to be run, as well on Sunday as on other days. In this respect I believe that all classes of our community acquiesce.

With great respect, I remain yours, &c.,

DANIEL F. TIEMANN.

Mayor Powell, of Brooklyn, replies in a similar strain:

Mayor's Office, City Hall, Brooklyn, Aug. 5, 1859.

William B. Thomas, Esq.: Your letter of the 2d instant is before me, and I take pleasure in returning an immediate answer, for the reason that I feel a deep interest in the subject of it. In a communication to the Common Council on the 5th of January, 1857, (a copy of which I send you,) I recommended, for the reasons therein set forth, the running of railway cars on Sunday. The subject was taken up and much discussed by the Common Council and the citizens generally. Public meetings were held, and the project was severely denounced by many of the clergy and our leading citizens as being destructive of the day, and that it would lead to lot and disorder, and lead to all sorts of evil consequences in the streets of the city. That they were sincere in their views no one can doubt. But as I think, fortunately, their views did not prevail, the cars were set in motion, and have now been running more than a year with the most gratifying results. Feeling in a great measure responsible for the measure, I watched its effects with some solicitude, and find that while the cars are filled during the day with passengers, they are, with scarcely any exceptions, of the most orderly and respectable class of our citizens; and I think a large majority are females. I have not heard of a single complaint from the people living in the suburbs, of anything like disorder or riotous assemblages, and from repeated personal observation, I am sure no cause of complaint exists. The cars are likewise patronized to a great extent by our church-going people, and many extras are required to accommodate them at the close of the evening service. In fact, so general is now the acquiescence of the people in this measure, that I am convinced that if it was brought to the test of a popular vote, that an overwhelming majority would approve it. One of the great benefits experienced in running the cars is, that it prevents the thoroughfares from being overcrowded. Before they were in use, the sidewalks were crowded with pedestrians to that extent frequently that it was difficult to get along with comfort, and the change that has been produced in this respect is remarkable, and is noticed by all who have occasion to travel on that day. In short, from every point of view, I think the benefits we derive from the accommodations of Sunday travel far outweigh the evils, real or imaginary, that attend it.

I remain, respectfully, yours,

SAMUEL S. POWELL.

Mayor Lincoln, of Boston, thus qualifies his indorsement of Sunday travel:

Mayor's Office, City Hall, Boston, Aug. 9, 1859.

To William B. Thomas, Esq.

Dear Sir: Yours of the 2d inst. was duly received, and I embrace the first moment of leisure to answer it, but I confess I hardly know what to say, as the circumstances of the two cities are so different.

The propriety of the horse railroad cars running on the Sabbath, I believe never has been seriously discussed either by the City Council or the public Press. I think it would be a serious evil if all our roads should run on that day, but they do not; only three carry passengers on that day, and that only to a limited extent.

The Metropolitan Railroad does the most business, and runs on Sunday, and connects us with the City of Roxbury. The greater portion of the travel, however, is from Ward Eleven, the southerly section of this city. This part of the city has recently been built, and its inhabitants are mostly those who have moved from the other Wards, but are still connected with the churches down town. The railroad furnishes them a means to keep up the connection with their accustomed places of worship. I believe it is generally used by people of all denominations, although I have heard occasionally a clergyman or some other conscientious person object to the mode of conveyance. The cars seem to run with less noise and confusion than on other days; the bells are not rung, and there is evidently an effort on the part of the conductors to observe the proprieties of the Sabbath.

I have no doubt that, to some extent, they are used as a matter of pleasure, but the evil that was apprehended, that large companies of idlers would rush into the country, and spend the day in dissipation, much to the discomfort and peace of the inhabitants of the suburbs, has not been realized in fact. There is a general regard for the Sabbath in our city and vicinity; it is not kept as strictly as it was by our fathers, but yet a good sentiment pervades all classes of our people, and seldom is anything seen which is objectionable.

I do not know the reason why the other railroads do not run on the Sabbath, excepting that they follow the custom of all the other modes of conveyance in the Commonwealth, and cease from work on this day of the week.

I wish I could give you some information which would be useful in this matter. The experiment, so far, in this city, cannot be considered either as an example or a warning. The authorities of Philadelphia must be the best judges of what is best for its own citizens, and will most promote the comfort of the inhabitants and the proper observance of the day.

From the haste in which this letter is written, and the limited time I have had to inform myself upon the subject, I should object to have any publicity given to it, but shall be exceedingly happy to hear from you or give you any other information in my power. I am, very truly, yours, &c.,

F. N. LINCOLN, Jr.

Note.—A subsequent letter authorized the publication of the above.

The trial of Wm. H. Jeandelle, charged with a violation of the Sunday laws, by driving a horse-car on the Coates and Green-street railway in Philadelphia, on the 17th July last, commenced in the Court of Quarter Sessions on Saturday, Sept. 10. The witnesses were the same who testified at the preliminary hearing, with the addition of pastors of churches on the route of the road. The testimony did not vary essentially from that which was published in July. The case was continued.

The Boston Traveller says of the suspension of the publishing house of Phillips, Sampson & Co., "The Courier, in noticing this suspension, states that the 'Atlantic Monthly load' was one of the causes of their embarrassment. So far from this being true, we are assured, on reliable authority, that the Atlantic has not only paid its expenses, but a very handsome profit over its cost. The suspension grew out of unfortunate circumstances, well known to the trade, which produced a lack of confidence in the stability of the house.

LAW REPORTS.

SUPREME COURT—Chambers.

Motion to discharge from arrest.—J. F. Butler and another, vs. William Hall.—This was a motion by the defendant to be discharged from arrest. He was arrested on a charge of obtaining money falsely, upon a bill of goods from the plaintiffs, who are merchants, at No. 20 Cliff-street.

The affidavit of the plaintiffs, upon which the order was granted, alleged that the defendant bought of them goods amounting to about $1,000, stating at the time that he was the owner of a large amount of property, and good business, whereas the plaintiff averred he was worth nothing, and owed much.

When the motion was first made, the matter was referred to Livingstone Livingston, Esq., who now made his report. He stated his conclusion that the transaction was one which might be perfectly consistent with good and proper motives on the part of the defendant, and that from all the evidence before him, he was of opinion that the defendant did not intend to defraud the plaintiff, and that he ought to be discharged. The Court, accordingly, ordered the defendant's discharge.

A. E. Hadley, for defendant.

MOTION FOR DISCHARGE FROM ARREST.

J. H. Sheitz vs. Meyer Goldsell.—This was one of many similar motions the same defendant has recently had occasion to make, as he is now in custody under orders of arrest in several actions.

In this it was alleged that he purchased from the plaintiff goods amounting to the value of $555, alleging that he was worth in St. Louis, free of all incumbrances, at least $5,000, and owed nothing except one note to the plaintiffs, of $297. Upon these representations, as they allege, they sold him the goods, but subsequently learned that he had made different representations to other firms in the City, and the order for his arrest was therefore obtained. The motion for discharge was on the ground that he was wrongfully charged.

The plaintiffs produced, in opposition to the motion, an affidavit of William McArthur, doing business in Chambers-street, which stated that the defendant had obtained goods of deponent, amounting to $800, on the representation that he was worth $25,000 in St. Louis, and owed nothing. Another affidavit of another party also showed that he made still other representations as to his property, different from either of these. Motion denied.

DECISIONS.

James H. Sturdy vs. Meyer Goldsell.—Motion to discharge from arrest denied with $10 costs.

Edward C. Boughton et al. vs. W. Hildebrand.—Motion to discharge from arrest denied with $10 costs.

In the matter of the application of Frederick De Peyster vs. George Bowman.—Order confirming report of Referee granted.

OPINIONS.

In the matter of James, administrator, &c., vs. Adams and others. Roosevelt, J.—The plaintiff sues as administrator of Barker. His authority it is said is void, because the proper parties were not duly cited before the Surrogate. Conceding the objection to be well founded in fact, it is not well taken in law. The Surrogate of Albany obtained jurisdiction of the subject not by the citations but by the evidence of the intestate within the County of Albany at the time of his death. That fact gave to the Surrogate of Albany County the sole and exclusive power to grant letters of administration on the estate of the deceased. 3 R. S. R., 73 and 23.

In other words, it was the only jurisdictional fact. The other provisions of the statute are directory, and a non-compliance with them may be ground for a motion to vacate, or an appeal to reverse, if made or taken in the proper tribunal and within the proper time, but no objection collaterally, to the validity of the letters, to be sprung upon the parties at any period, however remote, and under any circumstances, however inconvenient and uninvitable, for its consideration. (Sheldon vs. Wright, 1 Selden, 520.)

There are errors, therefore, in the Referee's decision that the plaintiff was to be regarded in this suit as representative of Barker. The next objection relates to the amount allowed. Barker, it appears, was ticket agent of the railroad company. Shortly before his death, which occurred the 4th of January, 1851, he deposited with the plaintiffs, who were brokers, $675 75 in uncurrent money received by him as such agent.

The defendants mingled this money with their own so that it became undistinguishable. Nevertheless, four days after his (B's) death, they paid over an equivalent amount to the Secretary of the Company, taking an indemnity. The referee refused to allow the payment neither partially nor wholly. In this demand to the extent of $150 we think he erred. After crediting all Banker's claims against the Company, there was still $150 on which he had no claim.

It was the money of the Company; and if it could not be restored specifically, it was not for Banker or one standing in his shoes, to raise the objection that the defendants or his agents returned only its equivalent. There was a manifest equity to that extent in the claim of the Company, and we see no ground for the position impliedly assumed that the defendants were bound to set up their own wrong or that of their principal to defeat it.

As to the rest of the $675,75, the Company, having no just right either legal or equitable toward it, could of course give no valid discharge on its receipt. The payment to that extent was in law a conversion of the money by the defendants.

Under all the facts we think that the interest was properly allowed. The defendant Adams, who was examined as a witness, did not pretend that his firm had not made interest.

It is the business of brokers to make money yield interest, and if the defendants, without any fault of their own, failed in this instance to do so, they could easily have shown the fact. We do not think, however, to be understood as holding that the fact of non user, had it been shown, would have released them from the liability to pay interest, especially on the two leading items of the account.

On the question, however, of the $150, a new trial must be granted, the costs to abide the event. But as the former referee is dead, the parties must apply at the Special Term for the appointment of another in his place.

Tyrone and Lock Haven Railroad Co. vs. Allen Scheck.—The facts in this case were reported at length in the Times of the 6th, 7th, 8th and 10th inst. The following opinion has been rendered: Davies, J.—The motion made by the defendant heretofore to be discharged from arrest, has been heard and decided by Mr. Justice Ingraham. He denied the motion, but gave leave to the defendant to renew the same on affidavits showing the solvency of the bank whose bill he gave in exchange for the bonds of the plaintiffs.

The defendant, in his affidavit, states that on the 12th day of June last (the date of the exchange with the plaintiffs) the Bank was in a perfectly solvent condition. Mr. Dye, the Bank Note Reporter, testified that he was well acquainted with the character and standing of the Southern Bank of Georgia, at Bainbridge, on and previous to the 17th day of June last, but he does not state that it was solvent. He states that he purchased the bills of this bank at one per cent. discount, but this was on the assumption that only $9,000 of the bills of the bank were in circulation.

The defendant, the President of the Bank, states that the capital of the bank was $200,000, which was all subscribed, and $50,000 paid in.

Assuming, therefore, that this sum remained there, it was all the actual capital of the Bank. From the facts stated by the defendant, and those affirming in the affidavits read in his behalf, I can have but little doubt that he is mistaken in his statements that on the 17th of June last, the day upon which he issued and delivered to the plaintiffs $170,000 of the bills of the Bank, the Bank was in a perfectly solvent condition. The affidavits read on the part of the plaintiffs (those made by residents of Bainbridge, Ga.,) show that for some months previous to the 17th of June last, said Bank had ceased to have any office or place of business there; that its bills were dishonored and refused to be taken; that in April last the safe of the Bank was taken on execution against the Bank and sold. And it also appears that the defendant admitted that the $50,000 of capital paid in had been abstracted or withdrawn long prior to the 17th of June last.

These facts leave no doubt on my mind that on the 17th of June last the Bank was hopelessly insolvent, and utterly unable to pay its liabilities.

The defendant, therefore, having failed under the leave given to renew this motion, to establish the solvency of the Bank, the motion to discharge the order of arrest on that ground, is denied, with $10 costs.

SUPERIOR COURT—Special Session.

Before Justice Hoffman.

THE ACCESSORY TRANSIT COMPANY.

The Receiver of the Accessory Transit Company vs. Cornelius V. Garrison.—This case again came up pursuant to adjournment from about four weeks since, and in consequence of the papers in the case not being ready, it was put over for one week, Tuesday next.

COMMON PLEAS—Special Term.

Before Judge Brady.

ACTION FOR DIVORCE.

Elizabeth Bennett vs. William W. Bennett.—This was an action for divorce, on the ground of adultery on the part of the husband. The complaint set forth that the parties were married on or about the 27th day of September, 1837; that two daughters, the issue of the marriage, are still living, one aged 11 and the other 14 years; that the defendant, at divers places and times, during the entire year of 1858, committed adultery with a woman unknown to the plaintiff. The answer of the defendant denied all the allegations of the complaint, and set up that the plaintiff abandoned him in 1852, and took with her his two children, and also his entire household furniture, since which time they have not cohabited together.

In a petition for alimony, the plaintiff set forth that the defendant was a butcher, and had a stand in Centre Market, and has, besides considerable means, a house and lot in Lexington-avenue, and other property, worth at least $6,000; and that the plaintiff is poor, and without the means to provide for her two children. In reply to this petition, the defendant denied that he was worth any property at all, and averred that he had to support himself by contracting for labor in his business. He also averred that his wife had been guilty of adultery before leaving him.

The case was referred to Michael Ulshoeffer, who reported that the plaintiff should have a divorce and the custody of the children, and that the defendant should pay in some manner $10 per week toward their support.

The report was confirmed, and the order made accordingly.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Hon. Judge Russell.

Several cases were disposed of yesterday. Francis Spada, an Italian, was tried on a charge of grand larceny, being indicted for stealing $64 from Mr. W. H. Brown, of the firm of Herkimer & Lathrop, by matching bills to that amount from his hand, at the corner of Broadway and Liberty-street, on the 3d of February last. He escaped at the time, and was only recently arrested. The evidence against him was conclusive. The jury completely exonerated the Judge and him to State Prison for [illegible] years.

George Omeldin was tried for grand larceny on an indictment at Mercury [illegible] E. Myers, [illegible] Office, on [illegible] guilty. One afternoon [illegible] the afternoon of July, or the morning of August, [illegible] crossing the Park, between the Post Office, [illegible] a strange man accosted him [illegible] (Myers) should know him (Omeldin) again. At the same time he proceeded to take liberties with Myers' watch-chain, with an evident view to the abstraction thereof, together with the watch therein appended. But Myers was no dupe for him, clutched him by the waistband, squeezed his windpipe and compressed his jugular. By a desperate effort the fellow escaped and plunged down Chambers-street. The next night he was arrested, and identified by Mr. Myers, and yesterday he was convicted and sentenced to the Penitentiary, on a verdict of an attempt to commit petit larceny, for three months, with a fine of $50, to be paid before he quits the prison. He anxiously wished to have the imprisonment increased, and the fine remitted, as had not a friend in the world, he said, to whom he could apply for the money. The judge very properly refused to accede to his request, and the probability is that he will spend several months on the Island before the fine is paid.

Lawrence Miller was tried for grand larceny. On August 20, dresses and other goods were stolen from Isaac Shearer, and pawned at the shop of C. and W. Cudlipp, No. 289 Spring-street. The evidence on the trial proved Miller to be the thief. The jury convicted him, and he was sent to the State Prison for five years.

John Miller was tried for grand larceny. He stole, on the 23d August, $41 in bank bills, and a silver watch, worth $6, the property of Henry Loeb. The testimony was strongly conclusive of his guilt, and he was sent to the State Prison for five years.

Bridget Freeman pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny in stealing from Walter Long, No. 36 East Thirty-third-street, on July 24th, two coats worth $40. Sentenced to the State Prison for three years.

John Kanassi pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny on August 22. He was charged with stealing goods worth $56 from Patrick Bagan, No. 239 Monroe-street. Sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

Mary Sweeney pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

Frank O'Rourke, a boy, pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was sent to the House of Refuge.

John Picked pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree, and was remanded for sentence.

James Freeman pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was also remanded.

[illegible] in executing. The [illegible] at Fifty-second-st. and Fifth-av. [illegible] Road in Hudson County, N. J., by Coroner [illegible] Tuesday afternoon, [illegible] Hospital.

AN INQUEST.—Runaway Death. Deceased was found yesterday at the foot of [illegible] street, N. J., by Coroner [illegible], upon the body of a man, about 45 years of age, who was found drowned at that place. The evidence showed that deceased was an itinerant (with player) and had been in the habit of exercising his calling upon the streets of Jersey. Recently, which place he visited in City and Hot Springs. Deceased left the latter place on Friday afternoon, and when last seen was partially intoxicated. In that condition he is supposed to have fallen overboard and lost his life. He has left a family living at Hot Springs, N. J. The body has been taken to Red Bank for interment.

DRAWN BEFORE A JURY.—Coroner JACKMAN had an inquest yesterday at Bellevue Hospital, upon the body of the unknown man who was found on Sunday morning lying insensible upon a raft at the foot of Eleventh-street, East River. No evidence identifying the deceased was elicited. He appeared to be about 30 years of age; was dressed in dark plaid pants and dark coat, and wore a gold and silver ring upon his fingers. He was five feet eight inches in height, and had long, black hair. On the inside of his left arm was a cross made with India ink. There were no marks of violence on the body, and the jury rendered a verdict of "Death from apoplexy."

THE SUDDEN RESIGNATION OF RECORDER BARNUM.—There is a rumor afoot that Recorder BARNUM intends shortly to resign his seat on the ground of ill-health, and some of our contemporaries have so stated. That the Recorder contemplates the resignation of his seat, we understand is a fact, but ill-health has nothing to do with it. He was never in better health than at present. The Recorder, as all who know him are aware, is a young, energetic, ambitious man, who desires a more active life than is afforded him on the Bench of the Court of General Sessions. He aspires to the office of Corporation Counsel.

IMPROVED ACCOMMODATIONS FOR THE TWENTY-SIXTH PRECINCT POLICE.—The apartments in the basement of the City Hall, in the southeast corner, recently occupied by the Comptroller, are to be added to those already occupied as a Station-house by the Police of the Twenty-sixth Precinct. Room No. 3, on the opposite side, which was also one of the offices of the Comptroller while his offices in the Hall of Records were undergoing repairs, is the Committee Room of the Joint Committee on Accounts.

FOUND DROWNED.—Coroner O'KEEFE held an inquest yesterday upon the corpse of an unknown man, which was found on Sunday afternoon at the foot of Ninety-sixth-street, North River. [illegible] Bay. Through some oversight on the part of the Police the matter was not reported at the Coroner's office until yesterday morning. Deceased was apparently about 30 years of age. He had black hair and whiskers, wore a black cloth coat, brown mixed vest, and black pants.

CRUELTY TO SEAMEN.—Capt. SAMUELS, of the ship Dreadnought, having been publicly classed among the inhuman ship captains, on account of alleged cruelty to seamen, is exonerated from the charge by a card, signed by all his crew on the late voyage to this port from Liverpool. They say, "If all captains would treat us with the same humanity as Capt. S. always treats a poor sailor, it would go far to improve the life and character of poor Jack."

LAUNCH.—The little steamer Seth Grosvenor, intended for service along the Coast of Liberia, under the auspices of the Colonization Society, was launched yesterday from the ship-yard of HENRY ADAMS, of the foot of Nineteenth-street. She is of very light draft, having a long, flat floor, but with sharp ends, and graceful lines. Her machinery will be put in by the Allaire Works Company.

SHIPS TO ARRIVE.—There are now due at this port a large number of passenger ships from various ports of Europe, which have sailed since the middle and latter part of July to the middle of August, viz: Ten from Liverpool; two from London; three from Havre; six from Bremen; two from Hamburg, and one from Antwerp—total twenty-four.

FELL FROM ALOFT.—A sailor named NICHOLAS CASEY, belonging to the ship John Stevens, lying at the foot of Pier No. 45 East River, fell from the mainmast of that vessel into the hold, and sustained severe injuries. He was taken to the City Hospital.

FOR THE WEST.—Another company of orphans, numbering about 80 children, left on Tuesday for Indiana, under charge of Mr. TEACY, of the Childrens' Aid Society. They were generally under 12 years.

Police Reports.

CATCHING THIEVES BY TELEGRAPH.—Officers Collier and Horton, of the Second District Police Court, arrested a woman named Henrietta St. Clair, yesterday morning, on a charge of stealing gold coin and clothing, valued at $117, from Mrs. Mary Thorp, now living at No. 226 Fourth-avenue. The complainant, it seems, is keeper of a maison de plaisir at Savannah, Ga., and arrived in this City a few weeks ago on a visit. During her absence from home she left Miss St. Clair in charge of her business, but the latter named personage relinquished her responsibility a day or two ago, and, pocketing all the available funds, and appropriating the clothing surreptitiously left the house. The fugitive took passage to New-York by the steamer Huntsville, and information of the fact was conveyed to Mrs. Thorp by telegraph. The victim of misplaced confidence appealed to Justice KELLY, and he issued a warrant for the arrest of the delinquent. The officers watched for the steamer's arrival and took the accused into custody just as she stepped on the dock. Of course the fugitive was surprised, but she evinced no alarm, saying it was a matter of indifference to her whether she was imprisoned or not. She was locked up to await examination on the charge.

GOODS COURTESY RECOVERED.—A well-known thief named Michael Wever was arrested, on Monday, by Detectives King and Slowey, on suspicion of having stolen a lot of cutlery which he had in his possession. The officers noticed Wever in Hester-street, and he, observing them unusually watching his movements, determined to elude their scrutiny by flight. He was pursued, and, after a long chase, captured in a lager-bier saloon in Division-street. His bundle was examined and found to contain about four dozen pieces of ivory-handled cutlery, consisting of knives, forks and put picks—a portion of which were marked "J. T. P.," in ornamental black letter, and the rest "T. P." in German text. The prisoner said he procured the property at a house either in Twenty-sixth or Twenty-seventh streets. He was locked up. The cutlery awaits a claimant at the office of the Detective Police.

A LAD SCARRED BY HIS PLAYMATE.—A boy named William McLaughlin, about 14 years of age, who lives at No. 6 Mulberry-street, was taken to the Tenth Precinct Station Monday evening by Officer McMahon, in a disabled condition from a severe stab in the breast. The lad stated that he received his wound at the hands of a playmate of his own age, named Thomas Sweeney, with whom he had an altercation. McLaughlin's injuries were attended to. His assailant was not arrested.

BURGLARY.—The front door of the store No. 209 Sixth-avenue, was found open yesterday morning by Officer Stewart of the Sixteenth Ward. An examination showed that an entrance had been effected by burglars, and that a small quantity of clothing had been stolen. No clue to the thieves has been obtained.

[illegible] ESSAY ON THE DISEASED INCLINATIONS
TRADES AND OCCUPATIONS.

It is our purpose to write, as briefly as possible, concerning the disorders and diseases incident to certain occupations, including their causes, symptoms and mode of cure. We shall do this in plain language, and in a straightforward way. Our purpose is two-fold—firstly, to give some curious facts not generally known; and, secondly, to bring more forcibly to view the ready relief at hand in RADWAY'S REMEDIES. We frankly avow that the trouble we are taking is a business transaction, meant to benefit both the public and ourselves. The diseases springing from various trades arise either from the very nature of the occupations, from the materials handled or used, or from both these causes. Scarcely any of these pursuits are necessarily unhealthy, but men will be as imprudent in their business as in their pleasure, and suffer for their neglect of precaution.

Let us first look at those who suffer from poisonous materials.

COPPERSMITHS, BRASS-FOUNDERS, BRAZIERS AND PINMAKERS, from their manipulation of copper and its compounds, take into their system either the impalpable dust of its oxides or salts, or their fumes. The result is a copper disease, whose symptoms may vary more or less in violence, sometimes creeping slowly along until the system is utterly destroyed, or else opening as a venue to more apparent diseases. The victim to the copper disease notices, perhaps, on rising in the morning a slightly acrid taste in the mouth, a slight constriction of the throat, the tongue dry and parched, and, sometimes, sickness at the stomach. He thinks he has caught cold, and, probably, takes some advertised expectorant, which leaves him worse than before. At times there comes an attack of colic. If dysentery is at all epidemic, he is very liable to be attacked, and his tormina and tenesmus, as the doctors call them, namely, his pain in the bowels and disposition to stool, are exceedingly violent. Often a thirst which he cannot account for, or a distended abdomen, or black stools, slightly streaked with blood, or an undefinable anxiety, is the commencing symptom, and is scarcely noticed. Cramps sometimes make their appearance in the limbs and stomach, either alone or accompanied by some of the symptoms previously enumerated. A headache at the close of work, or during the day, is quite common. A preventive of these would be the use of a respirator, which checks the passage to the lungs or stomach of the dust or vapor, and gloves, to keep it from the pores of the skin. A generous diet should be used, the bowels kept open by moderate doses of RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS; a dose should be taken in the morning and evening of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, and the use of RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT persevered in, until the system is rid of the poison.

TYPE-FOUNDERS, PEWTERERS, PAINTERS, PLUMBERS AND GLAZIERS, AND WORKERS IN LEAD MANUFACTORIES OR SHOT TOWERS, are exposed to the lead disease. This, like the copper disease, may produce a series of insidious but scarcely noticed symptoms, ending sometimes in paralysis, or more especially with painters and white-lead makers, in what is generally called painter's colic. These all, at times, will notice in their mouth, more particularly at rising, a sugary and slightly astringent taste, constriction of the windpipe, pain and uneasiness in the region of the stomach, and occasionally nausea, followed sometimes by vomiting.

COACH PAINTERS,

or those who use much vermillion, will have a tendency to diarrhœa, for, unlike copper, this shows its effects more in the small intestines; and the bladder and urinary passages will be seriously affected, sometimes merely producing painful urination, and at others, bloody or high colored urine. The REGULATING PILL and the RESOLVENT must be mainly relied on, and the parties should never go to work on an empty stomach. For the more painful symptoms the READY RELIEF will be necessary, and will by no means belie its name. It should be used internally and externally. In painter's colic, the REGULATING PILLS should be used to produce a free evacuation, and afterwards more moderately, to keep up regular action; and from the very start, the READY RELIEF given in full doses, in flax-seed or slippery-elm tea, or gum-water. The diet should be light, chiefly beef-tea, (not beef soup) or chicken broth, from which the fat has been skimmed. In paralysis, the persistent use of the REGULATING PILLS, with the READY RELIEF, well and steadily rubbed into the affected limb or part for at least fifteen minutes, three times per day, and a generous, but digestible diet, will effect a cure. In all external application the palm of the hand is the best thing to rub with, and a female hand from its softness, should be preferred.

DYERS AND CALICO PRINTERS

are liable to several severe symptoms. Those who use muriate of tin sometimes perceive its effects in their systems. They observe an austere taste in their mouth, which is apt to turn into a well defined metallic one, together with nausea, especially after rising from a meal. Their pulse is more small and hard, and beats more frequently than natural. One very common symptom is a frequency of stools, not diarrhœa, for during some months this may be unattended by pain, and the consistency of the evacuations be normal. Twitching of the face and extremities is less common, but a more dangerous symptom, for unless promptly met, it may be followed by paralysis of the parts attacked. The treatment in this is the same as in the copper disease, viz: RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, REGULATING PILLS and RESOLVENT.

are sometimes affected in a manner similar to dyers, but in a less degree. Their attacks are rare. If peculiarly susceptible they may take the lead poison from the solder, but we never knew but one case of that kind. The acrid fumes of charcoal, in this and similar trades, sometimes produce inflammation of the bladder, which may be effectually combated by the RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS.

PAPER-STAINERS AND TAXIDERMISTS

occasionally suffer some most distressing symptoms—the former from the showy greens they use, and the latter from their constant handling of arsenic or the corrosive chloride or mercury. A fœtid breath is not uncommon, with a rather austere taste at times, considerable increase of saliva, or constriction of the lower part of the throat, which seems to extend into the breast; frequent hiccough, sometimes a fainting sensation, which comes and goes very suddenly, very black and offensive stools, or high-colored urine. These are some of the symptoms which may occur separately or together. It is a curious fact that some people engaged at these occupations grow quite plump, and apparently enjoy the best of health, having especially a fresh and clear complexion. If, however, they go into any other employment, or refrain from work for some weeks, they are very apt to be visited with many or all of the above symptoms. In either case the RESOLVENT should be used, along with the REGULATING PILLS, the relief being resorted to in order to remove immediate pain or distress.

ELECTROTYPERS, GLASS-STAINERS AND CARD-ENAMELERS, MANUFACTURERS OF CHEMICALS, GOLD AND SILVER PLATERS AND REFINERS, are liable to many of the above symptoms. Electrotypers are especially liable to derangement of the bladder.

PRINTERS AND TYPE-FOUNDERS, from their constant handling of type-metal, contract the effects of antimony. This is shown by the temporary paralysis of the fingers and hands, copious stools, cold night-sweats, loss of strength, tenderness of stomach, bowels and throat. Sometimes though drinking nothing but water, they feel a confused, semi-intoxicated sensation in the head. The treatment here is gentle purging with RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS, sided with the READY RELIEF as a drink; when the disease has become chronic the RENOVATING RESOLVENT must be used as an adjuvant to the RELIEF and PILLS.

MASONS AND BRICKLAYER'S ASSISTANTS, AND MORE ESPECIALLY LIMEBURNERS AND WHITEWASHERS, are constantly liable to vomiting, pains in limbs or temporary palsy, which latter sometimes becomes permanent. A milk-diet, miscellaneous drinks, and the use of the READY RELIEF will remove most of these symptoms, the RESOLVENT being also necessary where palsy supervenes. Sometimes costiveness follows, demanding the use of the REGULATING PILLS. The particles of lime in the eyes are very apt to produce conjunctivis, which will yield to an eye-wash, made of sassafras pith and water, into which the READY RELIEF is put, in the proportion of six drops to every two table-spoonfuls, increased gradually to ten drops. A dose or two of the REGULATING PILLS will materially assist in subduing the inflammation.

POWDER-MAKERS

are subject to heart-throbbing and heart-disease, with looseness of bowels; and both these and

are liable to a very troublesome skin-disease, developing itself on the scalp, and sometimes in little patches, on the back of the thumbs or face-fingers, or at the lower extremity of the spine, attended with itching, and scaling off of the cuticle. In the former cases the REGULATING PILLS will be found sufficient, conjoined with the READY RELIEF; in the latter the RESOLVENT internally, with the RELIEF applied externally, diluted at first, but gradually increased to its full extent. The REGULATING PILLS may be advantageously used, if indicated by the state of the stomach and bowels.

The effect of alkaline contact is sometimes shown on in colic, constipation and diarrhœa. The READY RELIEF will remove these. Lemonade should be used occasionally, or a drink made of water and vinegar, or any vinegar, slightly sour, and will be found to be a pleasant as well as a valuable adjuvant. Buttermilk, sweet or sour, is good in these cases.

BREACHERS AND OTHERS, EXPOSED TO CHLORINE OR OTHER FUMES OF ACIDS, are liable to be attacked by pains in throat, stomach or bowels, excessive [illegible] and tenderness of abdomen. If the exposure is long continued, as our time, there comes an acid taste in the mouth which [illegible] after the free air is inhaled; but this only occurs from sheer neglect. The symptoms named first give way to the READY RELIEF. The addition of a slight dose of calcined magnesia will aid the action of the medicine slightly; but it is not absolutely necessary. The RELIEF will do its work well without it. The makers of lucifer matches are sometimes troubled with the above symptoms, caused by the phosphorus which enters into the composition of the tips. A chronic inflammation of the glottis and bronchia is sometimes the result of this—coming on very insidiously, and if not checked extending to the windpipe and even to the branching air-tubes of the lungs, called by the doctors, the bronchia. When this commences it may be seen, upon taking a bright made up of equal proportions of the READY RELIEF and water.

We will next examine the cases of those who are affected by disease from irritating substances applied to the lungs and air-passages mechanically, with which, indeed, some of those mentioned previously might be classed.

CARPET AND OTHER WEAVERS, CHARCOAL-DEALERS, BOILER-MAKERS, WHITESMITHS, LOCKSMITHS, MACHINISTS, FURRIERS AND FUR DEALERS, GLASS-CUTTERS AND DRILLERS, MATTRASS-MAKERS, TEA-PACKERS, CUTLERS, FILE-MAKERS, LAPIDARIES, SCULPTORS, STONE-CUTTERS, SLATERS, CARPET-BEATERS, GRINDERS AND POLISHERS, STREET-SWEEPERS, AND WOOL-PULLERS— are subject particularly to bronchial affections and consumption, arising from the floating particles of irritating matter, disengaged during the process in which they are engaged, and entering the air-passages. In all such cases RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, applied externally over the throat and chest, and the RENOVATING RESOLVENT, taken internally, will speedily effect a cure, and remove all traces of incipient consumption.

were formerly included in the same position, but the advent of silk hats has greatly diminished this tendency. A respirator is very necessary as a preventive, and, indeed, as an aid to cure. A silk handkerchief loosely tied over the mouth and nostrils, when directly exposed, is as good as anything. A generous and vigorous out-door exercise, and the use of the READY RELIEF and RESOLVENT will soon restore the system to health.

FARMERS, OSTLERS, GROOMS, AND ALL WHO HANDLE HAY, are liable to the distressing, though rarely fatal, complaint, asthma. The fumes of shellac produce the same disease, and hence hatters, and especially those who make sealing-wax, are subject to it. Asthmatic people are proverbially long-lived, yet the complaint is by no means agreeable. The READY RELIEF will mitigate or remove the paroxysms of the disease, and the RENOVATING RESOLVENT, taken according to directions, will effect a cure.

BAKERS,

from the action of the acid of fermentation on the skin of their hands, and the almost constant exclusion of air from the pores by the flour, are subject to a troublesome itch. For this the RENOVATING RESOLVENT is a sure remedy, but the RELIEF, diluted and applied as a wash, will aid in effecting the desired end sooner.

Occupations wherein sudden mental emotions, or protracted mental labor forms a part, are not only productive of brain disease, but of a gradual ramolissement or softening of the substance of the brain, whose approach may be told by neuralgia, either just below the eye, or above the eyebrow. Asthma and costiveness, the latter the parent of piles, fistula and similar troublesome complaints, are often the result. Hence it is that are affected so much with neuralgia and costiveness. The treatment in these cases is RADWAY'S READY RELIEF—externally and internally—the pain sometimes is caused after its application. RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS will, in a few hours, restore regularity to the bowels and liver. In certain cases of NEURALGIA and other nervous affections, the RESOLVENT is requisite.

Exposure to heat characterizes some occupations, thus, are liable to asthma, costiveness, rheumatism and inflammation of the spleen and liver. Enlargement of the liver is very common among all persons exposed to intense heat. Hence it is that liver complaints are so common in tropical climates. It need scarcely be said that the liver is a controlling organ, and that its derangement involves all the connecting viscera. The derangement of this viscus may be combated successfully by the proper use of the RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS, which in the spleen disease also act with speedy good effect. For rheumatism, if acute, the READY RELIEF applied both externally and internally is generally found sufficient, though chronic cases, or such as may be combined with a scrofulous habit, will not yield without the RENOVATING RESOLVENT, which utterly roots out the disease, and restores the system to its normal state.

IRON-FOUNDERS, FURNACE-TENDERS, COOKS, AND KITCHEN MAIDS

STEVEDORES, LONGSHOREMEN, PORTERS, QUARRYMEN, AND ALL PERSONS WHO LIFT GREAT WEIGHTS, are exposed to attacks of pleurisy. The RELIEF will break the violence of this, and with the REGULATING PILLS effect a cure.

BOATMEN, DECK HANDS, DITCHERS, DOCK-BUILDERS, SEAFARING MEN, RAFTSMEN, PHYSICIANS, STAGE-DRIVERS, TEUCHMEN, and all exposed to sudden changes of weather, are liable to liver complaint and rheumatic affections, but more especially to spleen disease.

SEAMEN,

through long abstinence from vegetable diet, are subject to SCURVY. The use of RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS and RENOVATING RESOLVENT is a sure antidote for this distemper. In all cases of SHIP-FEVER, SMALL-POX, CHOLERA OR YELLOW FEVER, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS are positive preventives, if taken before the attacks, and certain curatives if used after.

STAGE DRIVERS

are liable to suffer from diabetes, for which the REGULATING PILLS and RESOLVENT should be used.

PHYSICIANS,

who are frequently much exposed, should never be without the READY RELIEF, especially in visiting patients sick with contagious diseases. The head, hands and face thoroughly washed with it, and a full dose of it taken internally just previous to the visit, will effectually prevent contagion. The power of the RELIEF in the matter of contagious diseases is really wonderful. It is a sure preventive to SMALL-POX, and in a well-known disease among cattle, known as BLACK-TONGUE, depending, no doubt, upon some contagious virus, yields so readily to this remedy, that through the South and West, look upon it as a sovereign and infallible remedy in all such cases. Hence, too,

DROVERS AND CATTLE-DEALERS,

BOATMEN, PLANTERS, OR FARMERS RESIDING IN LOW OR OCCASIONALLY OVER-FLOWED GROUNDS, will find the RELIEF a protection against FEVER and AGUE and other malarious diseases.

PRINTERS AND MINERS, the former from their standing so long at the case, and the latter from their cramped position in the mines, aided no doubt by the dampness, have more or less troublesome affections of the joints occasionally. These will always yield to the RELIEF AND REGULATING PILLS, unless suffered to run too long, when the RESOLVENT may be required.

BUTCHERS

occasionally have life or limb endangered by a scratch or cut from a knife which has been used in dressing or opening an animal too long killed. Swelling of the part, itching and enlargement of the neighboring glands (kernels) follow. The wound should be washed, and a bread poultice, (not bread and milk,) moistened with some drops of READY RELIEF, employed. The swelling should be bathed with the RELIEF, and the REGULATING PILLS used until the violence of the symptoms has abated. It may as well be mentioned here, that the making of a really good poultice is little understood. Stale bread should be rubbed into a fine crumb, and placed in a soup-plate or large saucer, over which water, while boiling, must be poured. A similar plate or saucer is now to be placed over this, the two grasped firmly and held up sideways, so that the water will drain out. The wet crumb is now to be rubbed into a pasty consistence with a spoon, placed on a rag at once, and applied to the part as warm as the patient will bear. As soon as it begins to harden around the edges a fresh one should be substituted; and thus a continual fermentation be kept up. That is the true poultice, which may be medicated by the RELIEF, or otherwise, if required.

BASKET-MAKERS, BOOT AND SHOE MAKERS, AND TAILORS, from their sedentary habits, are subject to piles, anemia, tympanites, costiveness, hypochondria, diabetes, St. Vitus' dance, dropsy of chest, general debility, and, if the habit of the body tend that way, to apoplexy, or if not, to consumption and lung disease. The treatment of these under our system is summary and effectual. For hypochondria, the READY RELIEF and PILLS; for dropsy and St. Vitus' dance, the REGULATING PILLS and RESOLVENT; and for anemia, all three of the remedies. The treatment of the other affections have been already indicated.

The complaints of females engaged at various occupations are somewhat different from males, in consequence of their peculiarity of organization. It is true that those who lead a sedentary life, or are occupied in pursuits which require them to stand or lean over their labor, are subject to similar diseases with those of the opposite sex in like occupations. Thus are liable to costiveness, piles, and general debility. But what they have most to dread is the derangement of those secretions which nature has wisely given them for their health and comfort. They are particularly liable to hysteria, obstructed, painful or irregular menstruation, whites, kidney weakness, nervous debility, swimming of the head, inflammation of the ovaries, and womb disease, for all of which the RELIEF AND REGULATING PILLS are confidently prescribed; or subject to chlorosis, to be removed by the use of the RESOLVENT, in addition to the other two remedies named.

Perhaps of all female occupations that of

is liable to the most distressing symptoms, more especially when the ventilation of the work-room is not perfect. Standing position, monotonous employment and floating particles continually drawn into the air passages attacked by pains in throat, stomach or bowels, excessive [illegible] and tenderness of abdomen. If the exposure is long continued, as our time, there comes an acid taste in the mouth which [illegible] after the free air is inhaled; but this only occurs from sheer neglect. The symptoms named first give way to the READY RELIEF. The addition of

FROM WASHINGTON

The Loss of 1855—The Attack of the Sioux and of San Juan—American Citizens in the Prussian Army, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Sept. 13.

Messrs. DUNCAN, SHERMAN & Co., of New-York, have taken the specie—$1,100,000—of the Loss of 1855.

Commodore WM. MCKEAN has been ordered to the Washington Navy Yard.

Lord LYONS, in his interview with Secretary CASS this morning, expressed confidence in the amicable settlement of the Northwestern question.

Senor MARO left this afternoon for New-York.

[FROM THE REPORTS OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Sept. 13.

The State Department has received information from our Minister at Berlin that Christian Ruhle, an American naturalized citizen, who had been conscripted by force to enter the Hanoverian army, has been discharged from the service.

Flag-officer MAYO, commanding of the Pacific Squadron, writes to that Department that Capt. KEARNY, of the Cyane, informs him that he should leave off the coast of California, in the course of a month, for the Sandwich Islands, and thence to Mazatlan and Mexico, as her north-ward cruise has been completed.

It has been received here that the steamer Prometheus, and Mary Frances, on San Juan River, Nicaragua, were seized for debt.

The America Fire Company, of Philadelphia, are meeting marked attentions, especially from our citizens. They are now entertained by Col. FLY. On visiting the Executive mansion to-day they were warmly received by the President, who kindly responded to the presentation address, and to which Gen. CASS responded. They visit Mount Vernon to-morrow.

A large mass of correspondence has been received from Gen. HARNEY relative to the San Juan Island dispute, embracing copies of his correspondence with Gov. DOUGLAS.

He had seen the finest and strongest intellects, both from North and South, legislating under the influence of intoxicating drinks, and had stood by the graves of many warm-hearted, noble and generous friends, whose lives had been shortened by an indulgence in the use of alcohol.
